

Snow Traps Many

Midwest Hit Hard; Death Toll Is High

St. Louis Buried By Heavy Snow; 3 Dead in State

(By the Associated Press)

A snowstorm hobbled traffic and shut hundreds of schools in the Midwest today and whirled into the frozen East.

An uneven blanket than ranged up to a foot in depth and ormed drifts as high as three feet trapped hundreds of automobiles and made thousands late for work. Many gave up the struggle to get there at all.

Weather deaths reported during the day numbered 10. They included 3 in Missouri, 3 in Illinois, 1 in Pennsylvania, 1 in Maine, 1 in Michigan and 1 in Iowa.

The biggest snowstorm of the season paralyzed traffic in the St. Louis metropolitan area. About 8 inches of snow accumulated there in a 24-hour period. Hundreds of motorists abandoned their cars and many workers spent the night in downtown hotels.

Snow piled up to 6 inches in Chicago and it kept on falling. Government and transportation officials assigned 1,400 men to the snow removal task. On Lake Shore Drive between 31st and 57th streets the east wind blew snow back into the road as fast as it was cleared.

The wind reared road-blocking mounds across Indiana. Drifts up to three feet formed in cities.

Iowa's first major snowstorm of the winter dumped up to a foot of snow in the Spencer area in the northwestern section of the state.

Snow too deep for buses closed about a score of schools in southern Michigan. Slush hampered traffic on Detroit's expressways and delayed thousands on their way to their jobs.

As the storm headed into the East, government employees in Washington were told they could go home four hours early. The Weather Bureau there expected an accumulation of more than six inches.

United Fund Officers For 1961 Named

B. E. Heacock, 1617 West 11th, was elected president of the United Fund board for the year 1961, at a meeting held at the Chamber of Commerce office Thursday afternoon, Feb. 2. Mr. Heacock served as 1960 general campaign chairman.

Other officers elected were: W. A. Schien, first vice-president; Col. J. W. Donnell, second vice-president and Harry S. Naugel, treasurer.

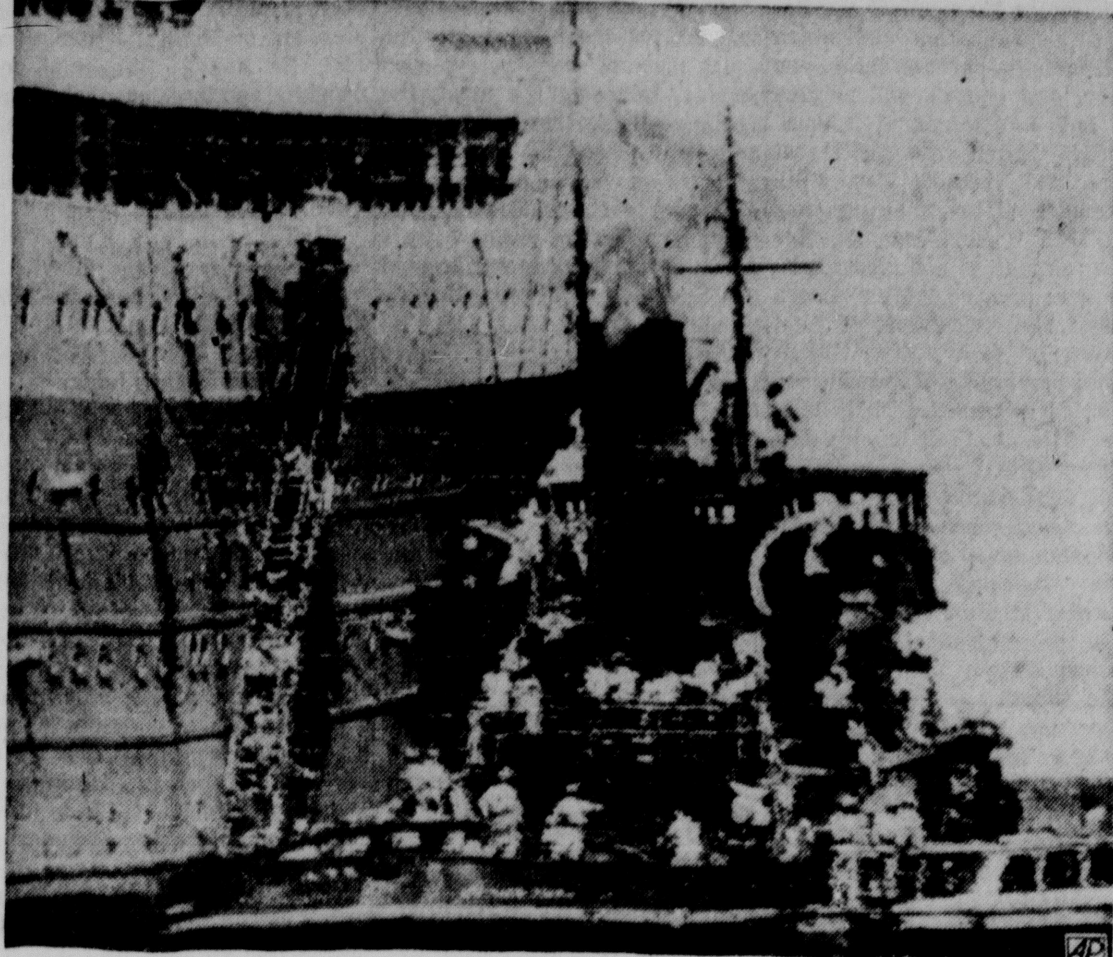

Col. Donnell, director of the 1960 campaign, reported the total amount received in cash and pledges to date is $53,860.

Harry S. Naugel, treasurer, reported that the net amount realized from the campaign would permit settlement with the agencies at this time of 66 per cent of their budgets. The sum of $28,580 of this amount will be paid direct to the participating agencies within the next few days, with the remainder to be paid to them later.

The participating agencies to receive benefits are: American Red Cross, Salvation Army, Boy Scouts of America, 4-H Clubs of Pettis County, Melita Day Nursery, Minniolia Day Nursery, Pettis County Child Welfare, Children's Mercy Hospital, United Cerebral Palsy of Pettis County, Girl Scouts, Missouri Social Welfare and United Service Organizations.

The new president, Mr. Heacock, appointed the following committee to select the general chairman of the 1961 campaign which is composed of Mrs. J. W. Maunders, chairman, Mrs. Harold Dean, Del Heckart and Dr. Lawrence Geiger.

The meeting was presided over by T. W. Cloney, who served as president during the past year.

Plan Going to House Early

Kennedy Aid Plan May Cost $1 Billion

WASHINGTON (AP)—The cost of the emergency extra unemployment benefits proposed by President Kennedy could climb to $1 billion.

The total would depend on how high unemployment remains and on the number of states voluntarily subscribing to the plan once it may be authorized by Congress. But officials estimate the cost could reach $1 billion.

On Capitol Hill, the plan apparently was set for early consideration by the House. The measure was believed to have considerable bipartisan appeal, since a number of Republican House members represent districts where unemployment is critical. But some employer opposition was expected.

Money for the plan would come initially out of federal funds. It would be repaid later out of revenues realized from broadening from $3,000 to $4,800 the annual earnings base of workers on which employers pay payroll taxes to finance the system. The plan, contemplated to last a year, would increase payment of regular weekly unemployment insurance benefits one-half again

Tickets Sell Like 'Hot Cakes'

Kiwanians Ready Pancake Mix for Saturday's Sale

The Sedalia Kiwanis club annual Pancake Day Saturday at Sacred Heart School cafeteria has promise of becoming the organization's stellar boys' and girls' work fund-raising project of all time, according to an initial poll of ticket sales at the club's meeting in Bothwell Hotel Thursday noon.

President William Schien directed team captains to call the roll to determine the various teams preferential position on assignment to three work hour periods. The result was as follows: 1. Robert Fritz, captain, team's ticket sales to date, 533.

2. James Ryan, captain, team sales, 523.

3. Louis Hughes, captain, team sales, 316.

Total sales, 1,372.

A rising vote of appreciation was given A. H. Wilks for having the greater number of individual sales—156. Next was his son-in-law, Sam Boyle, Pancake Day chairman, with a score of 70 individual sales.

Members of the Kiwanis club in addition to selling tickets will also participate in the cooking and serving of pancakes at Sacred Heart cafeteria from 7 a.m. to 7 p.m. Saturday. Sales will also be made at the door that day.

Further highlighting the Thursday session of the club at which Monte McQuiddy was program chairman, was the awarding by Robert Fritz, attendance committee chairman, of tabs to go with the Kiwanis lapel insignia, denoting the number of years of perfect attendance by members at meetings. Those receiving this recognition were:

19 years—Abe Rosenthal and Ed McLaughlin.

18 years—Pinkney Miller and George H. Scruton.

17 years—Charles L. Hanley.

16 years—Herbert Seifert.

Lost His Chance

The temperature Friday was 8 at 7 a.m. and 21 at 1 p.m. Low Thursday night was 6.

Ritzenthaler Assumes His New Duties

The Missouri State Fair's new Secretary, W. H. "Chubby" Ritzenthaler, assumed his new assignment, Wednesday, with the announcement of his appointment by Acting Commissioner of Agriculture Victor "Vic" Gray. Ritzenthaler came to Sedalia, that night, and began making a study of the fair situation for 1961.

Due to his previous experiences at the fair as both the Chief Clerk and also Acting Secretary at the time of the death of Ross Ewing, Ritzenthaler has found it possible to divide his time between Sedalia and Jefferson City for this month.

Early in January he was appointed Chief Clerk in the office of Attorney General Thomas F. Eagleton, the same position held under Governor John M. Dalton when he was the Attorney General. As a result he is spending the first two days of each week, Monday and Tuesday in the office of the Attorney General assisting and helping his successor to become familiar with this job.

He will spend the last three days, Wednesday through Friday, at the Missouri State Fair grounds conducting a study to re-familiarize himself with the fair grounds and the activities of the fair. He will be busy in studying contracts for the 1961 fair before signing them.

Mr. Ritzenthaler, Thursday, reported he was not contemplating any changes of personnel or other activity at the fair grounds at the present time. Not until he had an opportunity to make a further study of the situation.

He is anticipating a most successful 1961 exposition and with his previous experience has the knowledge of just about what Missourians expect of the state fair.

Mr. Ritzenthaler also stated that it would probably by March 1 before Mrs. Ritzenthaler and himself would move into the secretary's residence on the grounds, known as Fair Acres.

Whitton Wins Nod As Highway Chief

WASHINGTON (AP)—The Senate Public Works Committee today unanimously approved President Kennedy's nomination of Rex M. Whitton of Missouri to be federal highway administrator.

The hearing turned into a testimonial for Whitton, who has been an employee of the Missouri Highway Department 40 years and its chief engineer the last 10.

The nominee barely had a chance to say a word, except to thank the committee members and express the hope he could live up to their praise.

Brazil Holds Ship

Passengers Give Account Of 12-Days

Some Wept, Fought, Fell in Love; Had Fears and Laughed

RECIFE, Brazil (AP)—Some wept, some laughed, some shook with fear and tension. Some plotted, some fought, and some fell in love.

But the nearly 600 passengers trapped aboard the Santa Maria for 12 harrowing days of seaborne revolution in the end suffered nothing more serious than a bad case of jitters before they were landed Thursday at this port on the Brazilian bulge.

Mrs. John Dietz of Gainesville, Fla., the first American to step ashore, summed up the feelings of the others as she exclaimed, "This is wonderful, you have no idea."

For Mr. and Mrs. David Crockett of Pompano, Fla., the end of the unscheduled, 2,800-mile odyssey came with a tinge of sentimental sadness. They had played cupid to a young Dutchman and a Spanish senorita who had met during the cruise, fell in love and plan to marry.

"Be happy, dears, stay in love," said Mrs. Crockett, her eyes moist as she parted from William Vandermere of Amsterdam and pretty, brunette Laura Menendes of Oviedo, Spain.

Tensions rose to such a pitch during the final days at sea that two American men—not identified—swapped fistfights over some trivial.

What did most do to while away the trying hours?

Mrs. Floyd Preston, traveling with her husband, a University of Kansas professor, and their four children, said: "I sat and worried, talked and watched the children."

Her 14-year-old son, Harold, asked if he enjoyed the trip beamed—"sure."

Caroline Boyce, 60, a widow from Baltimore traveling alone, said the armed rebels stalking the deck made everyone aware the ship was being held by force.

"At the table next to mine in the dining room every night sat seven men wearing revolvers," she said. "But it didn't interfere with my digestion."

"The worst part was the tension and uncertainty of not knowing what was going to happen next," said Delbert Smith of Johnstown, Pa.

Gov. Dalton Defends His Revenue Plan

JEFFERSON CITY (AP)—Gov. John M. Dalton today defended his tax revenue program and declared he would oppose any plan to raise the state sales tax.

"I am going to oppose vigorously any sales tax increase because I realize the people affected by my program are going to try to put the burden on someone else—and I'm going to try to prevent it," he said.

"I still favor strongly the tax program which I have advocated and still think that the state's financial problems can be met by full collection of our existing tax levies and by bringing up to a fair level the taxes on certain luxury items such as cigarettes, liquor and beer.

"I am not as interested in an easy method of solving our financial problems as I am in a fair method of solving them," Dalton emphasized. "Any fair method certainly requires that those who owe taxes to the state pay them in full before further burdens are imposed upon our citizens who are presently bearing their fair share of the state's burden."

He made the statement in answer to criticism from the Missouri House of Representatives and the Missouri Public Expenditure Survey.

Brazilian Marines Take Over; Galvao to Shore

RECIFE, Brazil (AP)—With Brazilian marines in command of the Santa Maria, rebel chieftain Henrique Galvao had virtually no choice today but accept defeat of his revolutionary gesture and come ashore.

Nearly all the crew of the Portuguese liner was ashore and Galvao's own thinned rebel band was disarmed aboard ship.

The 610-foot liner's regular skipper, Mario Simoes Maia, disclosed there had been efforts to sabotage Galvao's voyage even though the regular ship's officers were under gunpoint at all times.

He said faucets were left open to deplete the fresh water supply, in an effort to force a landing. He indicated that Galvao's inexperienced navigator had been led astray at times.

Capt. Simoes Maia declared some of the Galvao band who seized the ship Jan. 22 had come from the Soviet Union and been trained in Russian brigades. He said these rebels had been in Cuba recently.

"This was an authentic case of piracy," he asserted.

The last act of the high seas drama was expected in a conference aboard the ship between Galvao and Adm. Dias Fernandes of the Brazilian navy.

A Brazilian navy minister spokesman said it is almost beyond question that Galvao will accept asylum in Brazil. A Portuguese exile, he lived in this country for a time but later went to Venezuela to plot seizure of the Santa Maria.

Left stranded with only a skeleton crew, rebel chieftain Henrique Galvao bargained with Brazilian officials aboard ship. But the Brazilian Foreign Ministry in Brasilia said that President Janio Quadros' new administration had control of the 20,906-ton liner and would act in accordance with international law—presumably meaning it would give the cruise ship back to its Portuguese owners.

Quadros had personally offered Galvao and his rebel band of 70 political asylum in Brazil. It appeared that the diehards would have to accept and end their flamboyant seaborne revolt against Portuguese dictator Antonio de Oliveira Salazar.

Galvao's chief lieutenant and navigator, Jorge Souto Maior, a Spaniard, told newsmen in a shipboard interview that the men left on the liner—believed to number less than 30—were not enough to move the big ship from her anchorage only 300 yards from the Recife docks.

Some were described as too old, others called inept.

It was believed some of the ousted judges already have fled the country or have sought asylum in foreign embassies, as some of the ousted supreme court justices did in December. The court president, Emilio Menendez, flew to Argentina two days before the December decree, accusing Castro's regime of "totalitarian practices."

It was not known how big a percentage of the judiciary was lopped off in the latest purge. Nor was any mention made of replacements for those fired.

The presidents of provincial appeals courts in every province except Pinar Del Rio were ousted today.

Guard Unit Plays Role In Economy

Members of 35th Administrative Company and 2nd Howitzer Battalion, divisions of the local National Guard unit, were responsible for injecting over $200,000 into the economy of Sedalia and the surrounding area during 1960, an annual report shows.

National Guard pay, which includes payment for drill and summer camp, totalled $26,993.71 for the 35th and $42,649.71 for the 2nd Howitzer group.

Full time employees of the 35th received $106,100 and 2nd Howitzer employees received $29,560, making a grand total of $204,903.42 for both units.

Guard personnel spent a large portion of their pay on major purchases, the report revealed. Purchased by Guardsmen and employees were: 10 homes, 18 automobiles, six refrigerators, eight washers, one dryer, and 20 major furniture items; during the year.

A $29,191 renovation project, including the construction of three new classrooms, is currently underway at the Armory. Dean Construction Co. is the contractor in charge.

Aged Care Takes Understanding More Than Love

KANSAS CITY (AP) — Taking care of the aged requires more understanding than love, a Brethren Homes Conference was told Wednesday night.

"It is beyond the capacity of average human beings to really love such people," said John Park Lee, a United Presbyterian Church executive.

"We can as human beings be tolerant of them," he said. "We can treat them with respect. We can be kind, but love, human love, is not enough, and this is where so many of the services for older people under ordinary circumstances fall down."

Lee suggested they be allowed to come and go with a minimum of restrictions, be encouraged to go out to church and participate in local church activities, be allowed to pitch in on the chores as if they were home and take up new interests by enrolling in study courses.

The Brethren Homes Conference is meeting in conjunction with the American Protestant Hospital Association.

Science Play Blasted By This Critic

By WILLIAM GLOVER
Associated Press Drama Critic

NEW YORK (AP) — Albert is supposed to be a very smart robot.

But if he had any sense at all he wouldn't hang around "How to Make a Man," which arrived Thursday night at Broadway's Atkinson Theater.

Albert and assorted humans are trapped in a science fable of 1961 that is tasteless, vapid, silly and confused.

Pete Marshall, embedded in metallic makeup and costume, enacts the wonder automaton who briefly threatens to win a final victory for machine over man.

Matched with him in a sequence of inane situations are Barbara Britton, Tommy Noonan, Vicki Cummings and Erik Rhodes as representatives of future domesticity.

The general performance of the principals, assorted lesser players and a couple of dwarfs (little robots, see?) under Eddie Brackman's direction is as faltering as the script thrust upon them by author William Welch.

The most effective aspect of the undertaking is a flattery Horner setting that faithfully observes the tradition of science fiction illustration.

Mitchell Free To Continue His Television Work

ORLANDO, Fla. (AP) — Actor Cameron Mitchell is free to go back to work today as the star of a television series being filmed in Florida.

The TV and movie actor was released from jail Thursday when attorneys for his former wife, Johanna, withdrew papers for a writ under which Mitchell was held for six days.

His ex-wife "claimed he was delinquent in alimony payments. Before his release it was stipulated that $450 from each of his weekly $2,500 pay checks will go to his ex-wife."

A Beverly Hills attorney for Filmaster Inc., which is making the TV series "The Beachcomber" starring Mitchell, said the actor said all along he wants to support his four children but had not been given an opportunity to work and raise the money.

Mitchell's former wife, the daughter of Canadian meat packer Fred Mendel, lives in Pacific Palisades, Calif., with the children.

Stone Image Big Help In Pueblo Lore

CHICAGO (AP) — Although it resembles a baker's ginger-bread boy, to the ancient southwestern Pueblo Indians it was the holiest of holies—the creator of all things.

The "boy" is a stone image uncovered recently in a desert digging in a remote area near the Little Colorado River.

It was found during an expedition by the Chicago Natural History Museum and the National Science Foundation.

Despite the mystery that surrounds it, it may enable archaeologists to shine new light on the cultural and religious history of the early southwestern Indian.

Dr. Paul S. Martin, chief curator of anthropology of the Chicago museum, says the effigy is one of the most important discoveries he has unearthed in 32 years of searching the deserts for Indian lore.

Digging in the ancient ruins of a great kiva—a primitive church, the scientists uncovered the eight-inch stone image stored in a crypt for six centuries.

The specialists believe it was a god or a goddess, but its power was short-lived because the Pueblo Indians lived in this particular pueblo only 75 years after settling there in 1250 A.D. They probably left because of flash floods.

Why they left their god securely hidden when they moved away is one of the questions the scientists are seeking to answer.

Discovery of the image was accidental. It happened while Dr. Martin and his men were scraping the kiva floor for traces of pollen from vegetation that thrived during the "good" years that Indians lived there.

Scientists are able to identify the pollen so as to date the change from one crop to another through the years.

The unique effigy was used in religious ceremonies. The fact that a ring-slab entry resembled hatchways on the roofs of smaller ceremonial chambers also is significant.

The Pueblo Indians believed—and still believe today—that their ancestors emerged into the world through just such a passage from their place of origin in the underworld.

Thus every time the god was removed from the crypt for a

Skilled In Fraud

It would be comforting to know that we really have the Soviet Communists boxed in and perfectly stalemated. Unhappily it isn't so. Their overt aggressions are largely halted, but they continuously devise insidious new techniques of subversion.

One of the things they appear to have learned lately is that if you cannot defeat a man you can sometimes make him at least a partial captive. The case of U.N. Secretary General Dag Hammarskjöld is an example.

The Russians failed in their persistent effort to unseat Hammarskjöld in the U.N. But they have raised so much fuss about him that he must now bend over backwards to avoid giving the Reds ammunition for their charge that he has acted in the Congo in an unneutral manner.

To illustrate, Rajeshwar Dayal of India, the secretary general's personal representative in the Congo, is considered to be hostile to any Western influence in that area and to be opposed to the U.N.-endorsed Kasubu government. Hammarskjöld evidently feels powerless to try to correct the situation.

Implicit in all their recent Congo maneuvers is a device the Communists seem to be using with increasing effectiveness.

They begin by lending some kind of illegal, subversive assistance to Red elements in a troubled land like the Congo or Laos. Naturally, Western nations respond in an effort to protect their own interests.

Wisely, however, they generally resort to the U.N. They may selfishly hope that its action coincides with their interests, but in theory at least the U.N. is thought to be the genuine protector of the smaller countries.

At this point the Kremlin jumps in and demands "neutrality" in all actions affecting the troubled area. But it is quickly discovered that neutrality to them means that all others keep hands off as they press their schemes for control or conquest.

It's a neat game. Begin with wrongdoing and then question the neutrality of all who thereafter dare oppose your misdeeds.

The wonder is that such patent frauds find receptive minds in the vulnerable Asian-African lands, and especially in India. More and more, India's alleged political sophistication begins to seem merely skin deep.

All the emerging peoples of the world will learn, if they have not already, that what Communists will do to them—if they get the chance—goes a great deal deeper than the skin.

Washington Merry-Go-Round

Truth Denied to American Public

WASHINGTON — Sometimes it's difficult even for a new President of the United States to get across the truth. For man's memory is short and the mass media of Madison Avenue have become so skilled that they can almost convince the American people that lung cancer is good for them. In brief it's now much easier to prove Abe Lincoln wrong; you can fool all the people for about eight years.

Never in my years of covering Washington has there been such a prolonged and deliberate attempt to suppress the truth as during the last eight years.

To illustrate let's look back over a relatively short vista of time to Oct. 4, 1957. We can all pretty well remember that on that date Russia astounded the world by launching the first Sputnik into outer space.

The reaction is not so easy to remember. "The administration is not interested in serving a high score in an outer space basketball game," soothed Assistant President Sherman Adams. "Nobody is going to drop anything down on you from a satellite so don't worry about it," reassured Secretary of Defense Charlie Wilson. "The real danger of Sputnik is that some too eager people may demand hasty and sensational action regardless of cost," cautioned Secretary of the Treasury Humphrey.

Four years have now passed. As of today, 1961, Russia has launched a satellite of five tons, we have launched one of less than one ton. But the confusing barrage of Madison Avenue propaganda is such that you would think the pennant which hit the moon had been put there not by the Soviets but by the Pittsburgh Pirates.

Suppression of Fact
Let's look at another short vista—not four years, but four months—a vista even easier to remember.

REMEMBER: On Oct. 10 every year it is customary to publish unemployment figures. Last October they were not published. It was an election year. Finally they came out one month late—on Nov. 10, two days after the election, showing that unemployment instead of its usual seasonal decline, had gone up. In 1954, '56, and '58—all election years—the Eisenhower administration had released unemployment figures earlier than usual because the figures showed improvement.

REMEMBER: In September the Secretary of the Treasury reported to President Eisenhower a dangerous drain on gold. But an election was on. Reports of the danger were denied—until a few days after the election when Secretary Anderson rushed to Europe to stem the gold drain.

REMEMBER: In October Senator Fulbright of Arkansas wrote George V. Allen, director of U.S. Information, requesting information on the U.S. prestige polls taken abroad. On Oct. 26 under orders from the White House, Allen wrote back refusing the information.

Those polls have now been published. They show that the United States has slipped badly from its once exalted position as the leader of the world.

REMEMBER: On Oct. 10, Senator Fulbright wrote the State Department asking for the full transcript of the Kremlin conversation between Khrushchev and Vice President Nixon—not the kitchen debate.

The secret transcript, it was known, showed that Nixon had apologized to Khrushchev for the "captive nations" resolution passed by Congress aimed at freeing the satellite nations. However, in October Nixon was in the process of clobbering Kennedy for having said he would have expressed "regret" to Khrushchev for the U-2 incident in order to save the summit conference. So a top secret label was placed on the transcript of the Kremlin talk between Khrushchev and Nixon.

REMEMBER: Ever since September, 1957, Secretary Herter, then under secretary, had been trying to coax the Chinese Nationalists off Quemoy and Matsu on the grounds that they could not be defended. John Foster Dulles, agreeing with him, made a special appeal in 1958. But when Kennedy took this same position in the Nixon debates in October, 1960, Herter's previous position was promptly denied.

REMEMBER: In October the operations research office of Johns Hopkins University finished a special report for the Army showing that our air raid warning system was "basically unsound." The report was suppressed.

REMEMBER: In October Army intelligence warned the White House that the Red army had 135 reserve divisions in addition to its 170 regular divisions. This too was suppressed. It was not considered good for the American people to know about the problems they faced.

These were facts, not rumors. And the American nation, spawned from the 1776 crucible of adversity, should be able to take bad news with the good.

Some time before President Kennedy's blunt and stirring state of the union message, Jack Anderson and I wrote a book, "USA—2nd Class Power?," aimed at trying to alert Americans to their dangers. "The emergence of Russia from the wheelbarrow age to the atomic age is the greatest miracle of modern times," we warned. "Yet if America doesn't recognize this fact, it is likely to get blasted off the face of the earth."

"The walls of the Kremlin are not like the walls of Jericho. They will not come tumbling down after seven statements by John Foster Dulles. . . . We cannot win the battle for freedom or the great goal of peace if we keep our heads in the sands of ignorance."

"However, the ingredients of greatness have not gone out of the bones of the American people. They are equal to great challenge—if they know the facts."

Those words, now strengthened by President Kennedy's blunt and inspiring state of the union message, are even more true today.

Guest Editorial

DES MOINES REGISTER: Un-American, Un-Christian.—Shamed by the forthright stand of a Christian clergyman, the Scarsdale Golf Club of Scarsdale, N.Y., has altered its offensive rule and now will permit members to bring Jews or persons of Jewish ancestry to the club as guests. This is a tiny little step toward common decency—presumably Jews are still barred as members—but it is a step.

The change came about as a result of a big Christmas dance and coming-out party. One of the debutantes was told she could not bring her chosen escort, an Episcopalian with a Jewish father and a Roman Catholic mother. She canceled her debut there. Her pastor, the Rev. George F. Kepsell Jr., announced that he would bar from communion at his Protestant Episcopal Church those members of the parish who had sanctioned the ban. He denounced their action from the pulpit as un-Christian.

Racial and religious discrimination in purely social activities is not a matter of law. The law wisely permits people to choose their own associates.

But law or no law, custom or no custom, the practice of social discrimination is a profoundly distasteful one. Discrimination impoverishes and demeans those who practice it even more than it hurts those whom it haughtily excludes.

Clubs which still practice this un-American and un-Christian exclusion should take a thoughtful look into their hearts.

Numerous groups have claimed credit for electing John F. Kennedy as president. Because of the closeness of the election, it's hard to dispute any of them. Latest to join the list is astrologer A. H. Walker of St. Augustine, Fla., who credits his "Astrologers for Kennedy Clubs" with doing the trick. Walker estimates there are 10 million astrologers in the country ("not counting newspaper readers").

How About a Little Respect for the Public

The World Today

Two Fine Steps--If Only They Work

By JAMES MARLOW
Associated Press News Analyst

WASHINGTON (AP) — President Kennedy, as part of his bang-bang action to get his new administration moving fast, has taken two steps which will be fine—if they work.

He has set up a task-force to pull together policies and programs on Latin America. And, as he disclosed in his economic message Thursday, he will create a 21-man labor-management group with a broad field to work in.

The task of this latter group, he said, will advise the President on actions that may be taken by:

"Labor, management and the public which will promote free and responsible collective bargaining, industrial peace, sound wage policies, sound price policies and stability, a high standard of living, increased productivity, and America's competitive position in world markets."

The government is to be a full partner in all this with Labor Secretary Arthur Goldberg and Hodges rotating the chairmanship between them yearly.

It sounds good, but the problem lies in getting the labor and management representatives to agree on very much. They've had trouble agreeing in the past. The public will also be represented.

During the presidential campaign Kennedy set up task forces to consider dilemmas facing him if he became president and recommendations to solve them.

One of these was headed by Adolf A. Berle, Jr., a Franklin D. Roosevelt brain-truster who served in the government from 1933 to 1948 and is a specialist on Latin America.

Kennedy made public a number of his task forces' reports in other fields. He has not released the one from the Berle group on Latin America, perhaps because of too dismal a picture of conditions there.

Berle will head the new task force, which has these members: Theodore C. Achilles, counselor of the State Department; Thomas

C. Mann, assistant secretary of state for inter-American affairs; William Bundy, deputy assistant secretary of defense for international security affairs; and Lincoln Gordon, an economic professor at Harvard.

During the campaign Kennedy complained that "dozens of U.S. agencies" are involved in this government's various efforts in the Latin-American field and indicated they needed pulling together, plus new programs.

This is the job for Berle and his group. And, since the State Department is so well represented on it, it would seem it would function under the wing of Secretary of State Dean Rusk.

But this isn't clear. It was learned authoritatively that Berle had been offered and had declined absolute autonomy in handling Latin-American affairs, preferring to have his group under State Department supervision.

But suppose Rusk and the two State Department officials on the panel disagree with Berle's conclusions and proposals. Does he bow to them or go over their heads to Kennedy?

In both cases—creation of the labor-management group and the Berle groups—the idea sounds all right. It's an effort toward orderly thinking and doing.

But the question is: Will they work or foul themselves up?

Lament Geography Books; That Screen for Misdeeds

Newspaper Enterprise Assn.

Educators are beginning to be concerned over the fact that today's young people know so little about the geography of their own country and of the world.

The reason for this great ignorance is, of course, that geography, as such, hasn't been taught in our public schools for about 15 years.

Well, I can see how today's children have managed to get along without geography (since it never was a very popular subject with small fry). But for the life of me I don't see how they ever managed to get along without the big, fat geography book that served so many useful purposes.

It was from behind the geography book that fourth and fifth grade boys used to throw spitballs and paper airplanes.

Dear Mrs. Lawrence:

During the last 12 years of her life my mother lived with me and my husband. Always my younger brother refused her any support on the grounds that he had children to raise. Six months ago after my mother's death, he demanded her diamond ring, silver and other valuables. At that time I was so worn out with nursing and strain that I didn't say anything. But now I feel such resentment at him that I'm getting afraid of my own feelings. If you could help me . . .

ANSWER — You expected love from your brother, didn't you?

What caused you to expect it from him? What reason had he given you to trust his affection in your years of experience with him? You know what I'm talking about. In this increasingly resentful state of yours, you must have recalled many, many old memories of your brother's disinterest in you. Now it's time to add them all up, not to more resentment of him but to the key question: "WHY DID I TRUST A PERSON THAT MY OWN EXPERIENCE HAD PROVED UNRELIABLE?"

We always have to look into ourselves when we are shocked by another person's mistreatment of us.

What we usually find is an unsuspected and unrealistic expectation of him.

Though a brother or sister has repeatedly demonstrated disregard of us, we will insist on believing that he loved us — and go to pieces when a situation like yours exposes the truth. What's more, we may remain in pieces until we are ready to see that it's been our dependent blindness, not the brother or sister who has been our undoing.

The truth you have been collecting can now make you free. Accept your brother as the person your memories have told you he is — and you will withdraw your unrealistic hope of love from him. Your deep disappointment in him will collapse with the collapse of false expectations of him — and soon you'll be quietly able to start negotiation for the return to you of your share of your mother's belongings.

Listen to your memories.

Save Important Financial Records, Discard the Rest

By FAYE HENLE

Good housekeeping should mean more to you than tidy cupboards. It should mean a knowledge of what to keep, what to throw away, so far as the records of your finances are concerned. Here is a run-down intended to salvage what is vital, and to dispense with the clutter:

Save all canceled checks and bank statements for at least two years. After that you can safely dispose with the checks you have written to cash, to pay local utilities and tradespeople. If they had not gotten their money, they would have told you so.

Save indefinitely checks you may need as proof of payment and date of payment and purchase price. These would include checks for real estate and home improvements, rent and property taxes, income taxes, medical expenses and other items deductible from your income tax.

It would also include checks to pay insurance premiums, to buy securities or expensive items like a car, piano, jewelry, furs, cameras, paintings and such. If you suffer a fire or theft, you will find these mighty handy to prove the amount of your loss, either for insurance or income tax purposes.

Bank statements provide you with a record of major financial transactions—they tell where the money went month by month. Keeping them over any extended period is optional.

Duplicate deposit slips can be thrown away once you've checked your monthly bank statement, provided the amount agrees with the credit printed on your account statement.

Sales receipts should be kept long enough to insure that you won't wish to return or exchange the items. If you use charge accounts, keep sales tickets until after you have checked them against your bill and paid it. However, keep those sales slips that show payment of sales taxes that you can deduct from your income tax. In most states, for example, this would include service station slips showing payment for gasoline purchases.

Keep guarantees for as long as they are valid.

Keep, for at least six years, evidence of the payment of medical bills, charitable contributions and such that you claim as deductions on your income tax.

Keep installment loan contracts until all payments have been made. If you are deducting the interest paid on your loan from your income tax, these records should be put with a copy of your income tax return. The safest place for such records is in a safety deposit box at the bank.

What is my source for these suggestions? Where can you go to find out how to budget expense according to income? Where can you get printed forms to chart assets and liabilities over the years. Where can you go to find out what records to keep to help plan your estate.

Such information is yours free along with printed forms so necessary for good financial housekeeping. Coast-to-coast, most of the banks can hand you such information free.

The material on what records to keep comes from a booklet prepared by Business News Associates, Inc. called "Family Money Management." It is distributed free by many banks. The most detailed budget guide I've ever seen is another bank give-away called "Spending Guide for Budget-Minded Families." It also is available across the land.

Beware of 'Gland Shots,' Men, in Search of Youth

By Harold Thomas Hyman, M.D.

"My husband is now 50 years old and he's just about driving me out of my mind," writes a housewife. "He has suddenly become grumpy and irritable and a problem drinker. I read in a movie magazine that things like this happen to men when they have 'change of life.' Is this true? And if it is, could he be helped with gland shots like they give some of the older movie stars?"

Dear, dear lady, I'm afraid you are among the many who've been taken by what someone called "marquee medicine." All bright lights and no substance. Let me try to straighten you out.

Men do not have a "change of life," comparable to that experienced by the female.

The woman's menopause, as indicated by a cessation of the normal cycle of periodic bleedings, marks the end of her opportunity for child-bearing. By contrast, the normal male may and frequently does achieve fatherhood up to and beyond the biblical three score and ten years.

Despite this fundamental difference in the reproductive capacities of the sexes, the possible existence of a "male climacteric" was popularized primarily by writers of what may be described as "science fiction."

Their views were quickly taken up by those who saw a bright opportunity for exploitation of the many men who, at 50 and beyond, give up the search for the pot of gold at the foot of the rainbow and now seek waters from the Fountain of Youth.

For a while, "gland shots" for the male climacteric were acclaimed by the same gullible celebrities who are presently singing the praises of the Swiss "miracle man" and the European lady doctor whose marquees advertise "rejuvenation" as the current attraction.

Unhappily the unglamorous truths about the male climacteric and its treatment with "gland shots" are these:

(1) "The concept of a male climacteric," wrote Dr. Elmer Hess, former president of the American Medical Association, "is misleading and dangerous, fostering indiscriminate administration of androgen (male sex hormone) to men over 50."

And (2) "the promiscuous use of male hormone is unwarranted and may prove harmful," states the Journal of the A.M.A. editorially "when given for the relief of nervous and mental symptoms" under the impression that these symptoms are due to failure of sexual function."

As to the "change" being responsible for problem drinking, that's about the wildest medical yarn since the ancient Greeks blamed the womb (hysteria) for the nervous disturbance they then labeled "hysteria."

CBS to Air A Previously Halted Show

NEW YORK (AP)—The Columbia Broadcasting System, which canceled the network telecast of "The Spy Next Door," says the show will be broadcast Feb. 15.

The program originally was set to be shown Feb. 1 on the "Armstrong Circle Theater." Last Sunday, without comment, CBS said it was canceling the show, which deals with Soviet spying in the United States.

Thursday CBS announced the new telecast date. The network said the cancellation decision came after a reading of the script last Saturday. However, said CBS, the producer was authorized to record the program.

On Wednesday night, the statement said, the program was screened and approved by five CBS vice presidents.

The network denied that cancellation of the show resulted from governmental pressure, saying: "CBS had no contact with anyone prior to its decision not to broadcast the program as scheduled except for contacts with the producer of the program and the sponsor's advertising agency, both of whom recognized that this decision was properly in the hands of CBS."

Warning May Have Come To Tower

OTIS AIR FORCE BASE, Mass. (AP)—Men trapped aboard the Texas Tower when it crashed in a raging storm off the New Jersey coast Jan. 15 may have had a few seconds warning that the giant radar platform was about to collapse.

Divers have found only one body inside the huge steel triangular structure now resting on the bottom in 180 feet of water. Another was discovered in the water.

A total of 28 Air Force and civilian personnel died in the plunge of the tower, nicknamed "Old Shaker" by men who served aboard.

Since there were double doors between the living quarters and the outside decks the absence of bodies inside the structure may indicate the men made a frantic effort to save themselves just before the tower fell.

One body clad in a life jacket was found in the sea afterwards. A second body was sighted and lost in the stormy waves. No trace of the other 25 persons has been found.

This Cape Cod air base was in charge of the tower, one of three linked to the Air Defense Command. The other two towers are off Cape Cod and Nantucket, Mass., both in much shallower water than the one lost off New Jersey. No fears have been felt for the safety of the 116 men aboard these towers.

Divers working over the site of the wrecked tower have been hampered by stormy weather for the past two weeks, Air Force officials said. High waves have made it difficult for surface vessels to stay on station while the divers were operating.

A nine-member military board of inquiry closed hearings here Thursday and has gone to Air Defense Command headquarters in Colorado Springs, Colo. There was no indication when its report would be released.

Most of the Air Force personnel numbering about 60 men had been taken off the radar station last November when divers reported that the tower legs braced had been damaged again by Hurricane Donna in September. The men lost Jan. 15 were a minimum Air Force crew that had been left aboard plus civilian workers attempting to repair the tower.

Air Force sources indicated no efforts to salvage the tower will be attempted until the winter storms abate.

Fliers' Wives May Share In Fate Secret

SACRAMENTO, Calif. (AP)—The distraught wives of two missing RB47 fliers today are either parties to high state secrets or still in the dark about the downing of their husbands' plane.

They wouldn't say which. "Our talk was very personal. I can't say any more about Dean," Mrs. Dean Phillips, one of the wives, told newsmen after an hour-long talk with Capt. John R. McKone and Freeman B. Olmstead.

Olmstead and McKone are the only known survivors of the six-man crew of a strategic reconnaissance bomber which was shot down over the Barents Sea July 1. They were released last week from a Soviet prison. They were closely guarded on their California trip by three colonels who would not allow the officers to talk to newsmen or even pose for pictures.

Mrs. Phillips told newsmen later she still is hopeful her husband may be alive.

Mrs. Phillips said she has received a letter from President Kennedy, and at first said it contained instructions that she was not to discuss her husband's possible fate. Later she said no one had given her any instructions. McKone and Olmstead were grim when they entered the house, but smiled and laughed as they left.

The visit closed out an 18-hour day for the airmen whose plane took off from Forbes Air Force Base before dawn.

They first flew to Fresno, Calif., and drove to Visalia to meet Betty Posa, wife of another missing California crew member.

When Mrs. Posa emerged from the conference she said only that the conversation was personal. Maj. Eugene Posa's 39th birthday was today. So was the 11th birthday of their younger daughter, Kathy. The couple also has another daughter, Vicki, 12.

• Fires In City

Three men were burned, one severely, in a fire at 409 North Heard Ave., about 2:50 a.m. Friday. The fire resulted from an explosion of an oil stove according to Albert "Al" Anderson, 63, who owns and resided at the residence. It was the second such fire at the place within a year.

George Anderson, 29, no relation to Albert, was the most severely burned. He suffered second degree burns on his back, and shoulders, both arms and on his hands, also about his face and ears. Hair over his entire head was singed.

Albert Anderson suffered minor burns on the top of his head and some hair on his head was singed. Oscar Sapp, 73, a roomer at the place who is an old age pensioner, received a minor burn on his head. He was taken to the hospital in a police car by Sgts. Charles Stuart and John McDonald.

Both Andersons were taken from the fire to the fire station by Fire Chief Emmett Vaught, and seeing the seriousness of the burns Vaught took the men to Bothwell Hospital after obtaining an old pair of "bunker" pants for the elder Anderson. Dr. A. J. Campbell Jr., attended all three men at the hospital and had the younger Anderson admitted for further observation.

When the stove exploded it awakened all three men. Al Anderson went to the basement of the house and tried to connect a small water hose to try and fight the fire. George Anderson, seeing the fire was out of control and it was too hot to reach a telephone in the house ran to the Louis Todd residence, 309 North Heard, and Mrs. Todd notified the fire departments.

It was May 30, 1960, at 1:08 a.m. when the fire companies made their first call to the residence at which time it was gutted by the fire and a barn next to it was destroyed. No one was injured in that fire.

As the fire trucks arrived on the scene early Friday morning the flames were leaping out the windows and the front door. A line of hoses with two leader lines were quickly laid and the fire was soon brought under control.

The firemen found Al Anderson at the rear of the place where he had rolled in the snow to extinguish the flames on the back of his shirt. He was able to get out of the house, but unable to save his trousers which had been lying near his bed. Both George Anderson and Sapp were able to get some clothing and their shoes on before leaving the house.

Both Andersons were asleep in the front part of the house and Sapp in a room at the rear of the house.

Fire Chief Vaught estimated damage to the house at $1,000 and to contents at $500.

Young Anderson told a newspaper reporter his home is in Cedaraple, Colo., and that he was stationed at the Whiteman AFB for a time. When he received his discharge he decided to remain in Sedalia and has been working for the elder Anderson repairing water pumps.

Investigate Derailment Of a Train

BOWIE, Md. (AP)—A train derailment which turned a day at the races into a nightmare of death and suffering in snow-covered countryside is being investigated by Pennsylvania Railroad officials.

Six persons were killed and about 150 were injured Thursday when seven cars of a special 11-car train from Philadelphia left the rails while making a left turn from the main line onto a spur leading to Bowie race course.

About 300 passengers were on the train, three miles from the race track, when the quietness of the mid-winter afternoon was shattered in a mass of twisted steel, broken glass and uprooted seats.

The double-unit diesel engine tumbled over on its right side. The seven derailed cars bounced along over cross ties or open ground, but did not topple over. "All we felt was two sharp jerks," said a dining car steward, Eugene B. Webster. "One big sudden jerk, then a small one."

One of the passengers who escaped injury, Edward F. Janus, 48, of Philadelphia, said he thought at first the train was just making a sudden stop.

"There was one jolt after another and the car was rocking like a ship at sea," he said after climbing from the last derailed car.

Trooper W. E. Brooks of the State Police, first on the scene, said he saw scores of dazed passengers emerging from the wreckage.

New Explorer An Orbiting 'Chatterbox'

WASHINGTON (AP) — The space agency plans to launch another Explorer satellite next week, a new type of orbiting chatterbox broadcasting on six radio frequencies.

Analysis of the intensity of the radio impulses as received on the earth may tell communications experts much that they do not know about the ionosphere and why it occasionally interferes with radio transmissions.

The National Aeronautics and Space Administration, disclosing plans to launch the satellite from Cape Canaveral, Fla. within a few days, said today it will be a cooperative international project with New Zealand, Canada and Peru.

The 74-pound satellite will range between altitudes of 240 and 1,600 miles, sending signals of varying power to receiving stations around the world.

Until it has been launched successfully and named Explorer IX, the new payload is known as Ionosphere Beacon Satellite S45. NASA said it looks very much like the Explorer VII and Explorer VIII satellites, having two cones back to back.

The S45 has a six-foot loop antenna around its middle to transmit its low frequency signals to ground stations.

"Unlike Explorer VII, this satellite will not be an experiment in itself," NASA said.

"Explorer VII measured the positive ion and electron concentrations in its orbital path around the earth."

"The new satellite will merely transmit on six frequencies at varying levels of power. Ground stations receiving the signals will analyze them by various methods."

The ionized fringe area over the earth's atmosphere, known as the ionosphere, ranges from 50 to several hundred miles above the earth.

"So far, too little is known about the ionosphere," NASA said. "Lack of this knowledge is costly. Long range communications, depending upon reliably bouncing signals off ionosphere layers, require much more information. Weather forecasting, upon which agriculture and transportation must rely, needs more ionospheric data."

Economy Sag And Gold Are Big Problems

WASHINGTON (AP)—A slumping economy and a worrisome old problem were the factors weighing most heavily with Treasury officials who planned the Kennedy administration's first big financing operation.

The department announced Thursday that it will offer, on Monday, $6.9 billion of 18-month notes paying 3½ per cent interest. The proceeds will be used to pay off a like amount of Treasury securities which mature Feb. 15.

In designing the terms, Undersecretary Robert V. Roosa and his colleagues wanted, in addition to raising the needed cash, to:

1. Make certain that the government had enough cash on hand at a time when the recession is hurting tax revenues.

2. Encourage American corporations to put money into the new notes, instead of seeking higher interest rates in Europe. A heavy flow of capital to Europe already has given Europeans millions of extra dollars which, in many cases, they have used to buy American gold.

3. Cooperate with President Kennedy's program, announced Thursday in a special message to Congress, to encourage lower long term interest rates. The President believes reductions here would help stimulate the economy.

Normally the Treasury refinances maturing securities by offering new ones in exchange. Owners of the issues coming due may demand a cash payoff or accept the exchange offer.

By side-stepping an exchange in this case, the department took no chances with a big demand for cash. Since revenues are in a slump, a large cash payoff might have necessitated an emergency borrowing later to replenish the Treasury's till.

As for the second objective, Roosa told a news conference that by offering 3½ per cent interest for 18 months, the department wanted to exert "the maximum pull" on corporation funds. He said the terms were "certainly not going to hurt" the gold situation.

Finally, the department wanted to avoid doing anything that might have thwarted the campaign to reduce long term rates. Had it issued a longer term security, the increased demand it would have placed on the money market would have put upward pressure on rates in that area.

200 Families Lose Homes in Eruption

SANTIAGO, Chile (AP) — Calbuco volcano erupted Thursday causing more than 200 families to lose their homes in a flood of lava sliding down the side of the mountain.

The volcano, about 1,200 miles south of this capital, was one of 11 which erupted during last May's devastating earthquakes. Many animals were trapped in the flood of lava, but it was not known if any humans perished.

In Eldon Tournament

Camdenton Downs Tipton; Eldon Pulls a Major Upset

Camdenton fairly easily pulled Tipton 56-42 while Eldon pulled one of the big upsets in a week's cage play by defeating Dixon, 71-67, and Owensville upset Eugene 79-72 in the Thursday night round of the Eldon tournament.

The Eldon-Dixon game was truly an upset. Dixon was seeded second among tournament teams and went into the game with a 17-3 record while seventh-seeded Eldon could boast only a 9-7 tally.

Eldon took a nine-point edge in the first quarter and although outscored in two quarters was able to hang on to a slim lead.

High point man was Eldon's Wood with 19. Dixon scoring honors were divided between Hauck and Mann each with 17.

In the Camdenton-Tipton clash, Camdenton took a five point lead in the first quarter that dwindled to four points by halftime. Camdenton managed to add four points in the third period and six more in the final quarter for the 14 point winning edge.

The big gun was Camdenton's Green with 19. Top scoring effort for Tipton was turned in by Robertson with 10.

Another upset came in the last game of the evening when Owensville which had been seeded sixth, defeated Eugene, seeded third in the tournament. Owensville put through its winning points in the third quarter when they outscored Eugene 26-15.

Owensville went into intermission trailing Eugene 36 to 39. But the third quarter saw them put on the heat to take over an eight point lead and held on through the fourth quarter.

Enke of Owensville was the power for his team with 29 points while Tegeler picked up 25. For Eugene Gretlein led his team with 27 followed by Morrow with 20.

Tonight's pairings will find Warsaw going up against Camdenton at 7:30 and Eldon meeting Owensville at 9 in the semi-final round. Finals of the tournament are scheduled Saturday night with games at 7:30 and 9.

In the first game of the evening, St. Paul's ran away with their game over Sweet Springs, running up a 10-point lead at the end of the first quarter, increasing it to 17 at the half. It was never a question who would win as St. Paul's Soeldner dumped in 22 points and Karsten and Wolbrecht brought home 16 and 12 respectively. High for Sweet Springs was Straight with 27 points, good for game scoring honors.

In the second contest, Corder was whipped by Hughesville after the first quarter. At half time the score stood 32-20 in favor of Hughesville, and it increased consistently thereafter. Frerking dumped in 22 points for Corder, however, followed by Roepe with 13. High for Hughesville was Martin with 29 points, good for scoring honors for the game and the evening.

Give Libya Grain To Thwart Drouth

2 Questions In Millrose Games Tonite

NEW YORK (AP)—The 54th edition of the Millrose Games with 23 Olympians from five countries shooting for titles takes over Madison Square Garden tonight with two big questions to be answered:

1. Will John Thomas go all out to beat Valery Brumel's fantastic high jump of 7 feet, 4½ inches made in Leningrad last Saturday?

2. Is Istvan Rozsavolgyi of Hungary ready to make a serious threat to break Ron Delany's 4:01.4 world indoor mile record?

The latest word from Boston University Coach Ed Flanagan is that they are not concerned with Brumel, that they will carry on according to their pre-arranged plan which is to bring the 19-year-old junior to his peak in three weeks.

Thomas, whose recognized world outdoor record is 7-3¼, thinks he can top his Soviet rival's mark.

As for Rozsavolgyi, 32, there is no question but that he will try to break Delany's record. The Hungarian army captain blandly admits he goes for a record every time out.

One thing is certain—he'll have to hustle to get across the finish line in front of Ernie Conliffe, the Stanford graduate student, who set a world indoor 1,000-yard record of 2:07.9 last week. Jim Grelle and Deacon Jones also are not to be overlooked.

Villanova's Frank Budd heads the 60-yard dash field, and Hayes Jones of Eastern Michigan is the standout in the 60-yard high hurdles. Mal Spence of Arizona State University and the British West Indies will defend his 600 title against Cliff Cushman of Kansas and George Kerr, also of the BWI.

Triple gold medal Olympic winner Wilma Rudolph of Tennessee State will run in a special 60-yard dash for women.

Bradley Leads Top Scorers In Small Colleges

The tightest scoring race in NCAA small college basketball annals has the three top scorers, led by John Bradley of Lawrence Tech, separated by just seven points.

In addition three other shotmakers are within close range of the pacesetters through games of Saturday, Jan. 28, according to the latest figures released today by the NCAA Service Bureau.

Bradley has a 32.9 average on 527 points in 16 games followed by Gene Velloff, of Doane, 32.5 on 422 points in 13 games and Lebron Bell of Bryan (Tenn.) with 32.2 on 386 points in 12 games.

Not far behind the top three are three other 30 points-plus contenders in Lindberg Moody, of South Carolina State, 30.9; Warren Spraggins of Virginia Union, 30.3; and Dennis Butcher of Pikeville, 30.1.

Lawn Tennis Group Will Be Tougher

NEW ORLEANS, La. (AP)—The U.S. Lawn Tennis Association has decided to be tougher on players who blow their tops on the court — and it has started off by slapping down the country's two top Davis Cup aces, Charles (Chuck) McKinley and Dennis Ralston.

The Amateur Rules Committee Thursday night recommended that the suspension of McKinley be extended to May 1 and that both McKinley and Ralston be placed under probation for the rest of the season.

"We'd do the same thing to Barry MacKay and Butch Buchholz but they've turned pro and now are out of our jurisdiction," said one influential member of the committee.

The recommendation now goes to the USLTA executive committee, meeting here tonight. Approval by the higher body is a foregone conclusion.

America's tennis governors thus are sharply slapping the wrists of the Davis Cup team which came in for so much criticism during the recent campaign in Australia. The team captain, David Freed of Salt Lake City, was absolved of any blame.

The tip around the USLTA annual meeting here is that Freed is a cinch to be renamed captain for 1961, and also that he is ready to accept "We want him back if he'll take the job," said Harcourt Woods, chairman of the Davis Cup committee.

Freed, who gave a report to the rules committee, was relieved that the punishment was not more severe.

"The boys were being hit not for just what happened in Australia but for a series of offenses dating farther back," Freed said. "They were fortunate to get out of this light. I know there were some who wanted to throw the book at them."

"This won't deprive them of a chance to play at Wimbledon or to play overseas. It shouldn't hurt our Davis Cup chances."

That is a matter of some dispute. McKinley, 19, of St. Louis, and Ralston, 18, of Bakersfield, Calif., are the nation's chief Davis Cup hopes now that MacKay and Buchholz have turned pro.

With the probation cloud hanging over their heads, they may find it difficult to play their best and most relaxed tennis.

Team Will Mark Two Celebrations

By DON WEISS
Associated Press Sports Writer

St. Bonaventure, unchallenged No. 2 team in college basketball, has two celebrations underway today.

One is for a whopping 75-61 victory over third-ranked Bradley at New York's Madison Square Garden Thursday night. The other is word that the little school from Olean, N.Y., has accepted the earliest invitation in history to play as an at-large team in the National Collegiate Athletic Association post-season championship.

The NCAA berth gives St. Bonaventure a possible chance for a rematch with the Ohio State Buckeyes, who handed them their only defeat of the season—84-82 in the New York Holiday Festival final at the Garden in December.

The Bonnies' acceptance, announced today by the NCAA, means they will have to survive a preliminary tournament round at New York March 14 and win the Eastern NCAA regional at Charlotte, N.C., March 17-18 for a possible crack at Ohio State.

Ohio State, to qualify, would have to win the Big Ten Conference title, then win the Mid-East regional at Louisville, March 17-18. If that happens, then St. Bonaventure would play Ohio State in the national NCAA semifinals at Kansas City March 24.

St. Bonaventure has eight regular season games left—including Tennessee State, Siena and Niagara at home, Boston College, DePaul and Canisius at Buffalo and road games at tough Providence and Duquesne.

Providence pushed its winning streak to eight last night, 115-70 over Creighton, while fifth-ranked North Carolina and Utah won important conference tests, and Notre Dame nipped ninth-ranked St. John's 64-63.

North Carolina (14-2) won its 12th straight game with a comeback 63-56 decision over Maryland.

Utah, with Billy McGill and Jim Rhead each scoring 20 points, beat Colorado State U., 69-58.

Armand Reo's tip-in with 12 seconds left beat St. John's (11-4) for Notre Dame—the New York Red-men's third loss in only three games away from the Big Town this season. Reo had 20 points while St. John's All-American, Tony Jackson, was held to eight.

Wake Forest won its eighth in nine ACC starts, 93-73 over South Carolina. Wichita (15-4) took a 104-58 win over North Texas State. Ted Luckenbill's 24 points paced Houston's 88-73 victory over Tulsa, Michigan whipped Western Ontario 88-58. Columbia edged Fordham 51-47 and Harvard nipped Amherst 64-62. Connecticut, led by Len Carlson's 20 points, downed Manhattan 73-71.

Separate Rooms Seen for Negro, White Players

KANSAS CITY (AP)—Separate accommodations for negro and white players will be the rule for the Kansas City Athletics in spring training, Frank Lane said Thursday.

There will be no dispute between the baseball club and the Florida communities over segregated housing, said the A's general manager.

"We are not spearheading any political movements, and we don't want to become involved in political issues."

The A's train at West Palm Beach, Fla. The whites stay at the George Washington Hotel and Negroes are boarded at private homes.

"All we can do," Lane said, "is go along with the situation that we have inherited. We want all players, black and white, to have the best possible accommodations in accordance with the rules of the community in which we train."

Bob Boyd, acquired from Baltimore in a recent trade, is the only Negro on the Kansas City team. Three or four Negroes in its farm system will try out during spring training.

Spokane's Al Mengert In the Lead

PALM SPRINGS, Calif. (AP)—Spokane's little known Al Mengert held a slim and surprising lead today going into round three of the Palm Springs golf classic.

But the unrivaled conversation piece here was an even bigger surprise—a hole-in-one that could turn into a $50,000 stroke of luck for Don January.

January, 31, who played golf for 24 years without scoring an ace, hit the jackpot on the fly Thursday at the 148-yard 15th hole on the Indian Wells, Country Club course.

The sponsors of this 90-hole, $50,000 event have offered a $50,000 bonus to any pro scoring an ace, and if no one else makes it before Sunday night, January will have the plump prize to himself.

Mengert, also 31, shot a 6-under par 65 Thursday at Thunderbird and came in with a two-day score of 133. The former amateur star was just a stroke in front of Bob Rosburg and Art Wall Jr., and only two strokes ahead of Fred Hawkins, Jay Hebert, George Bayer and Dave Marr.

January's hole-in-one, accomplished with an 8-iron, had several engaging aspects. One of them was that the slender Dallas golfer thought at first his ball was stuck in a tree instead of a hole.

January said the ball probably hit the pin on the fly and stuck right in the bottom of the cup. Don came in with a 65 but his first round 76 gave him 141 for two days and left him eight strokes back of Mengert.

January's hole-in-one was the second in the two-year history of the classic.

Young Joe Campbell of Anderson, Ind., got one last year on the 205-yard fifth hole at Tamarrisk.

But Campbell had made a pre-tournament deal to split the prize if he should win it, and he wound up with only $12,500. Again this year many pros formed small groups and agreed to divide if any of them should get an ace, but January will cut his prize with no one but the revenuers.

Coach Voices Disagreement On Chamberlain

PHILADELPHIA (AP)—Coach Charley Wolf of the Cincinnati Royals today voiced disagreement with Coach Paul Seymour of St. Louis who had said that 7-foot-1 Wilt Chamberlain has nothing going for him but his height.

"Just because he's 7-1 doesn't make him a good player," Wolf said of the Philadelphia star after he had scored 45 points Thursday night to lead the Warriors to a 133-118 National Basketball Association victory over Cincinnati. Jack Twyman, with 25 points, and Oscar Robertson with 24, were high for Cincinnati.

"Suede Hallbrook (of Syracuse) is 7-3 but he can't get the things done Chamberlain does," said Wolf. "The fact that Chamberlain is 7-1 and has ability makes him much greater."

The fourth-place Royals' loss in the nightcap of a Convention Hall doubleheader hurt their Western division playoff chances. The loss left them two games behind Los Angeles which defeated first place St. Louis 116-115 in the opening game on Frank Selvy's foul shot in the last five seconds.

There were no other games.

Breaking Recession Poses A Big Problem of Payment

By SAM DAWSON
AP Business News Analyst

NEW YORK (AP)—How to pay for President Kennedy's proposed crash program for braking the recession he says is with us and may get worse?

Industrial and financial leaders—and ordinary taxpayers—today are studying his economic message to Congress for a clue to that. More taxes? A bigger federal debt? More inflation?

Many agree with the President that the need to do something is more pressing than a temporary imbalance of the federal budget. Others fear this will just open the fiscal gates to still more spending and eventually to more monetary inflation and rising prices.

The President says that in time the program will pay for itself—by stimulating the economy and thus providing the increased incomes which the Treasury will tap for larger tax returns.

His argument: the budget prepared by former President Dwight D. Eisenhower estimates Treasury revenue in the 1962 fiscal year of $82.3 billion. But if the economy was operating at its full potential, Kennedy says the revenue would be $90 billion. This is because the Treasury gets the greatest share of its receipts from taxes on individual and corporate incomes—the more prosperous the economy, the greater the Treasury take.

The President further pledges that he would move to brake any resurgence of monetary inflation just as he now proposes quick federal spending programs to give consumers more money to spend and thus brake the recession.

President Kennedy also has his eye on new revenue sources for the Treasury. He will ask Congress for "measures to remove several unwarranted special tax benefits, and to improve tax compliance and administration."

Brando Likes Following In Gable's Steps

By BOB THOMAS
AP Movie-TV Writer

ABOARD H.M.S. BOUNTY, Off Tahiti (A)—Does Marlon Brando mind following in Clark Gable's footsteps? Not a bit.

Brando is starring as Fletcher Christian in a movie remake of Mutiny on the Bounty, a role Clark Gable played originally with immense success. It's his first remake.

This is what he says of the first "Mutiny."
"I saw the old picture recently. It's a bore. Nobody remembers Gable in it. People remember him for other films, like 'Gone With the Wind.'"

"The actor people remember in 'Mutiny on the Bounty' is Charles Laughton. He moved right in and took over."

Why did Brando undertake the film?
"Because the theme of the story intrigued me," he said. "Here was a group of men who had one great moment of glory, when they rose and conquered tyranny."

"Then they had the greatest opportunity to achieve happiness. They went to a place (Pitcairn's Island) where the natives were friendly, where living was incredibly easy. And what happened?"

Within two years they were dead. They had killed each other.

"It seemed to me that this presented a microcosm of man's situation throughout history: The struggle of the black vs. the white, of good vs. evil, of the urge to create and the urge to destroy. If man cannot find happiness on an island paradise, where can he find it?"

Brando left the question unanswered and went on to his two future film projects, both of them highly controversial. One is "The Ugly American," the novel which excoriated American officialdom in Southeast Asia. The Senate Foreign Relations Committee chairman Sen. J. William Fulbright, has blasted the movie venture, and State Department officials have made no secret that they don't want the novel filmed.

Will they be able to stop it?
"Not unless they also change the constitution to remove the section about freedom of speech," Brando replied. He said that several scripts have been written, and he expects the finished version to do no harm to America abroad.

He added that he is negotiating for the rights to the life of Carl Chessman with Columbia Pictures, which had made a quickie of the criminal's autobiography. Brando will direct and star in the new film. This means he will continue his fight for Chessman's cause.

The actor last year pleaded (along with Shirley Maclaine and Steve Allen) with California's Gov. Edmund G. Brown for action to save Chessman. Brando also made a death watch at San Quentin prison on the morning of execution.

His comment: "I have no doubt that Chessman was guilty. But I think that he was a psychopath. He was smart—smart enough to make a good living honestly. He was also smart enough not to be caught at crime, but he wanted to be caught."

"What I question is the right to take a human life. I don't think (executions) deter murder. Most murderers would not be stopped by the threats of losing their lives for their crime. It is the fear of breaking society's laws that

Desolate Community

No Wheels Turn for Three Years in This Mining Town

EDITOR'S NOTE: Waiting for something to turn up can slowly strangle a man's soul. Thousands of former coal miners and unemployed steel workers know this well. Relief measures in the hard-hit coal and steel country keep some going. But that's not enough. Johnstown, Pa., is struggling back, seeking new industries and retraining programs. Nate Polowetzky, assistant general business editor of The Associated Press, in touring depressed labor areas, tells in the following article how the men and their communities are faring.

By NATE POLOWETZKY

JOHNSTOWN, Pa. (AP)—About 10 miles outside Johnstown is the small soft coal mining community of St. Michael.

It is a desolate town. The mines shut down there about three years ago in the general decline of the industry and, according to one old miner, not a wheel has turned since.

Day by day the men while away the hours at union clubs, talking, and waiting for something to "turn up." It never does. "We exist through relief," said one of them. "Some live on surplus food given out by the government. Others pick up odd jobs and still others have wives who are working."

"Taking relief is no way to live, with inspectors always snooping around. Especially if you've worked hard all your life. The men accept relief but I think with a subconscious feeling of shame."

St. Michael is part of the "depressed" two-county Johnstown area, where some 16,000 men were out of work as of mid-December, 1960—a 16.9 per cent unemployment rate. This compares with the present national figure of about 7 per cent of the total labor force.

Coal mining and the steel industry were the two props to whatever prosperity the Johnstown area achieved through the years.

But with the decline in both industries — and the permanent drops in employment through automation, and new technological processes — Johnstown has become a consistent depressed area.

Ray Myers, 35, is one of St. Michael's unemployed—out of a job for almost a year. He picked up his last unemployment compensation check last December.

Myers has four children and another expected next month. His wife, Rosemary, has been working as a bookkeeper in the company store in St. Michael but will have to quit work soon.

Says Myers, a miner since 1941 (except for 3 1/2 years in the army):

"I spend my time watching them four little Indians while the wife works. It's a lot the same all over St. Michael. I'd rather work anytime than be a baby sitter. Now the wife has to stop work. I don't know what happens then. I guess I'll just have to join the rest at the relief office."

The situation has hurt industries allied to both steel and coal as well as small retail businesses. However, about 5,000 women have found work in new apparel and needle trade industries in the area and their earnings have helped keep consumer spending at a fairly high level, so that in Johnstown, at least, no long established business has failed.

But to such "small" businesses a Lewis Cornell, 63, the unemployment is a real and immediate problem.

Cornell has been operating a small service station, where he also sells candies and soft drinks. He has been in business since 1941 even while working as a coal miner.

"Altogether I was in the mines for 41 years. I've been out 8 years. Our business here has fallen to about zero. I used to do about 500 gallons of gas a week. Now we're lucky if we have anywhere near that a month."

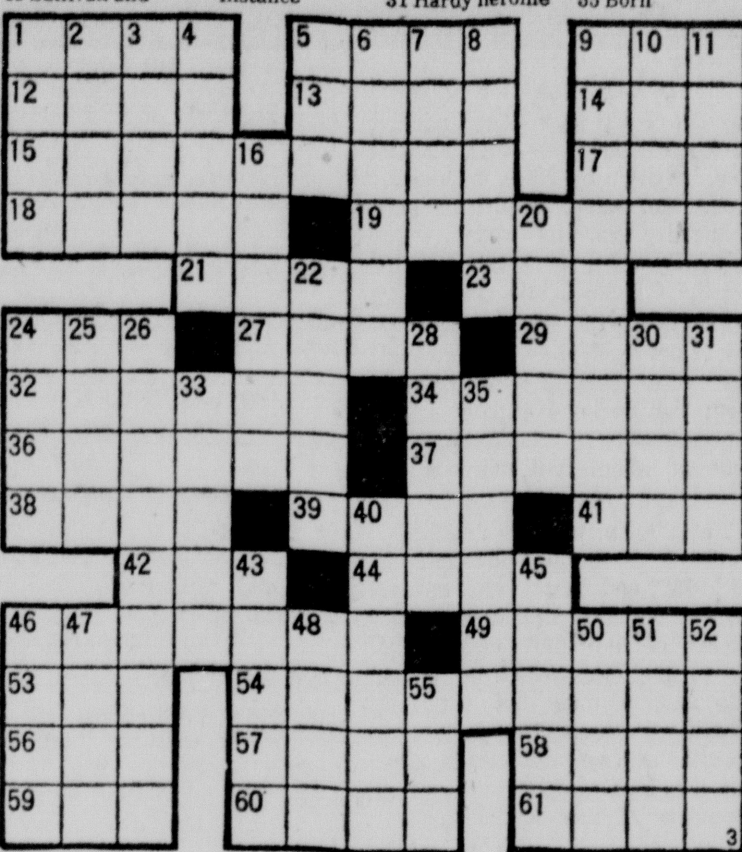

"How do the families exist? Well, many women work in garment factories. The men don't feel very good about it but what can they do?"

'Brother, It's Rough'

Unemployment On Tongue Of Each Johnstown Citizen

EDITOR'S NOTE: "I used to be a worker, a man, a husband, a provider. I no longer am any of these things. I cannot find a job." So spoke an ex-coal miner in Johnstown, Pa., and his words reflected the poverty and hopelessness of many workers in the steel and coal industries.

Nate Polowetzky, assistant general business editor of The Associated Press, is touring the depressed labor areas. This is what he reports in his first article from the steel-coal country.

By NATE POLOWETZKY
JOHNSTOWN, Pa. — "I cannot identify myself," the letter read, "because I no longer have an identity."

"I used to be a worker, a man, a husband, a father, a friend, a provider, a neighbor and a member of a community, to mention only a few of my former identities; but I no longer hold a claim to any of these."

"I am no longer a worker because I cannot find a job. I cannot be a husband, a father, a provider, or even a man because I cannot provide a living for my family, which is my first responsibility."

The letter, signed, "an ex-coal miner," came to the desk of the editor of the Johnstown Tribune-Democrat.

"Ex-coal miner" said he was 43, married, and the father of 5 children, the youngest 9 years old.

"In 1958," he wrote, "I received the final 'pink slip' from the mine where I had worked for more than 20 years. But until now, somehow, I still had hope."

"I believed that something would happen; somewhere a job would open up; sometime I would be told, however, kindly 'Sorry. Too old. Nothing for you' or 'All filled up.'"

He added: "I am healthy and vigorous; my body aches to do an honest day's work, but I can find nothing but an occasional odd job."

The letter summed up the heartbreak and despair of thousands of the unemployed in the Johnstown area; which has been a "depressed" economic section consistently since 1953.

While there is some optimism here that things will get better in the future—a pickup in the dominant steel industry and the establishment of new industries to create jobs and diversification—the present unemployed situation is bleak.

Some 16,000 men were out of work in the two-county Johnstown area in mid-December 1960. Of these 10,300 were unemployed in the immediate Greater Johnstown area. The unemployment rate was almost 17 per cent, compared to the present nationwide figure of about 7 per cent. Some other smaller communities are in worst shape.

And things have got worse since then as steel and mine employment — the two industries on which Johnstown previously depended for her economic health — continued to decline.

Johnstown is but one of some 16 chronic unemployment areas in Pennsylvania, where 433,000 persons, or 9.3 per cent of the work force, were out of jobs as of mid-December.

Legislation is pending before Congress to provide aid to the nation's depressed areas; to try to help them retain their unemployed and to help them attract new industries into their areas. It is unlikely, however, that this legislation, authored by Sen. Paul H. Douglas, D-Ill., and supported by President Kennedy, in itself will completely solve the depressed areas problem.

And even if a nationwide recovery should start—as expected by later this year—chronic unemployment probably will continue to exist in many areas.

Says Mayor Joseph Barr of Pittsburgh, in whose four-county labor market are an estimated 110,000 persons out of work, 60,000 of whom are chronically unemployed:

"Even if the steel industry returns to 100 per cent of capacity, we have reason to believe that this will not mean 100 per cent restoration of employment within the steel industry—a sentiment echoed by spokesmen of the giant Steelworkers of America Union. Through the bleakness there is hope."

"Bethlehem Steel spent about $50 million in improvements in its plant here in the last 10 years," said a civic leader in Johnstown.

"While this means that fewer men will be needed to produce a ton of steel, it also means that Bethlehem Steel is going to stay in Johnstown. It is encouraging from that standpoint."

Said an official of the local Chamber of Commerce:

"Out of all this depression, something good has come. An awareness that we have to diversify; that we can't depend any longer on one or two industries."

"It's been a long time coming. You couldn't sell the idea of urban development at a time of peak prosperity."

"Now we have established the financial means of helping new industries settle here and we are in as good a position as any area in the state to attract new industries."

Diversification has already begun in the area. About 5,000 persons, mostly women, are employed in new apparel and needles trades industries.

"But what we need," the Chamber of Commerce official said, "is new 'male' industries. That's where you get your big payrolls. And we have some very fine prospects."

Better highways to make the area more accessible to new industries is also vital, city leaders say. To create industrial sites, 18 acres of a blighted residential area are being torn down and other sites will ultimately become available.

"But perhaps the most important thing that has come out of our depression," said one observer, "is an awareness among the youth—those who remain here—that they have to get more and better education, learn skills, to prepare for new jobs in new industries in the future rather than just aim for work in the mills."

Some of these youngsters attend night classes at Johnstown College, an extension of the University of Pittsburgh. Many of them come from families whose income for years had been derived from the mills.

A recitation of their backgrounds sums up the present situation here.

Said one youth: "My father and three uncles all worked in the mills. They were laid off almost a year ago and haven't worked since."

Said another: "My father and his two brothers have been out of work for about seven months."

Still another: "There's terrible times in the steel mills. My father used to work in the mills. But he's disabled now. If he weren't he'd probably be out of work, too."

And one more: "My father has hold on."

Network Will State Series Pure Fiction

NEW YORK (AP)—"The Untouchables," ABC's gangbuster series, is fiction and, except for a few scattered programs, always has been. And starting Thursday night, the network is saying so at the end of each program.

"You just can't build a series on the life of one man," said Robert Stack, who plays Eliot Ness in the popular program. "There just isn't enough material to keep it going. Besides, many of the real events in a man's life just don't make usable dramatic material."

The series was the follow-through of a two-part show adapted from a book, "The Untouchables," written by Ness, a Chicago prohibition agent toward the end of the dry era. His exploits were primarily concerned with smashing the Capone crime empire.

But before the series was very old, Eliot Ness and his intrepid lads were rounding up everything from the Barker-Karpis gang to the assassins of Anton Cermak, none of whom had much to do with bootleg booze.

The problem with the real Ness, of course, is that Prohibition ended in 1933 and so did Ness' career as a prohibition agent. The producers of the show solved that by turning Ness and his aides into federal men but with no identifiable connection with any specific service. Sometimes they act like FBI men, at others like members of the Secret Service.

"We've been trying to make Ness the prototype of the completely honest cop and the dedicated young man," said Stack. "And we've been trying to make the show interesting theater."

Great changes are in the works for "The Aquanauts." Not only has it acquired a new co-hero (Ron Ely who looks very much like the one he replaced, Keith Larsen) but the boys are going to spend more time on land than under the seas. And instead of roving adventurers, they are going to be—this is romantic?—a pair of shopkeepers. It's a swank, beach-front store in California's Malibu.

Chamber Leader Has Words About Kennedy's Ideas

LOS ANGELES (AP)—The president of the U.S. Chamber of Commerce says of President Kennedy: "He doesn't have a socialistic bone in his body."

Arthur Motley made the appraisal at a news conference Thursday in discussing the Kennedy anti-recession measures. But Motley was critical, too, at times.

He said he was convinced that the administration's "pump priming" is designed to energize the nation's sagging economy, not destroy it.

Then he added: "I'm afraid, though, that President Kennedy doesn't have as much faith as I do in the capacity of the economy to roll with the punches. There is nothing wrong with the country today that a good dose of selling won't cure."

Pavement Plato Joins Long List of Advice Columnists

By HAL BOYLE

NEW YORK (AP) — Dear pavement Plato:

I have a valued employee who sits at his desk all day snoring. This is very distracting to the rest of the office staff. What should I do?

Dear Executive: Tell him—if the union has no objection—he must lie down and sleep on top of the desk. If the snoring persists, assign an office boy to turn him over every 15 minutes.

Dear Plato: Today I received a letter from my dear old aunt's attorneys saying she had passed away and left me $769,843.12.

What is the first thing I should do with all this money?

Dear Lucky: Count it!

Dear Plato: My present wife and I are very happy except for a distressing argument that has been going on for years.

I promised my first wife I would be buried by her side, but my second wife insists that if I truly love her I would want to be buried in her family plot.

To tell the honest truth, I'm in no real hurry to be buried next to either of them. What do you think is the best all around solution?

Dear Puzzled: Just keep living. That's the best solution to any problem.

Dear Plato: Chemistry is my hobby. Tying around with my test tubes the other evening, I accidentally stumbled on a magical discovery—a liquid gravity remover. Three drinks of it and you float right up to the ceiling.

How should I go about marketing this wonderful new product?

Dear Elated: Sorry to disillusion you, but you are a little late with your idea. The martini was invented more than 100 years ago.

Dear Plato: My wife thinks I should retire next summer when I am 55, so that we can enjoy our remaining years together free from the worries and responsibilities of the daily grind.

We will have a monthly income of about $125. Do you know a place where two people can exist in comparative comfort on that kind of money?

Dear Hopeful: Yes. Any well-run jail.

Dear Plato: My husband and I have just joined the P.T.A., and next week we will attend the first meeting, at which our group will discuss two highly controversial questions: (1) whether the school cafeteria is serving too many carbohydrates and too few proteins, and (2) whether to ask the school board to employ a ballet dancer for the kindergarten.

What could we wear that would be most suitable for this occasion?

Dear Doubtful: Ear plugs!

Arrest a Thief Who Has Unique Way With Keys

LARNED, Kan. (AP)—The Larned State Hospital has suffered a mysterious loss of foodstuffs and stores for several years. Authorities were baffled.

Jess Waters, 67, an employee of the hospital for 18 years, was arrested Tuesday. He was described as a genius at making keys.

Waters worked the overnight shift at the power plant, and fellow employees saw him loading his car from the hospital warehouse. Sheriff L. B. Hess was alerted.

Deputies searched Waters' home and found an assortment of merchandise—"everything from furniture and electric light fixtures to hand lotion and sacks of sugar the sheriff said. An inventory was under way.

The mysterious thief was characterized by his ability to have a key to fit any lock. Locks were changed, but the thefts continued.

DIMONDALE, Mich. (AP)—Special rules have been drawn up for two benefit basketball games planned between the ladies of Dimondale and Potterville to benefit the March of Dimes. Rule changes specified:

1. No long fingernails.
2. All rings must be removed.
3. Ladies must control their tempers.

Property Is Bought For New School

The Windsor Board of Education approved payment of $9,975 for the purchase of the property of Mr. and Mrs. F. L. Hayden, 405 South Main street, which adjoins the school grounds on the north.

Mr. and Mrs. Hayden are planning to move across the street into the Shadburne property. The house on the lot has been sold to Charles R. Holmes. Mr. Holmes will have 45 days after the property is vacated in which to move the house off of the lot.

It is expected the land will be cleared in plenty of time for the beginning of construction on the new elementary school to be built on the north side of the campus, in front of the present old grade school.

After receiving a report from the school's architect and an engineer, the board approved a plan for a separate heating plant for the new school. The new building will include a furnace room.

The present heating plant will continue to serve the older building.

It was decided to install fluorescent lighting instead of incandescent lights.

The architect was authorized to proceed with final plans for the new building. Approximately 45 days will be required to complete final plans, the board was told.

The State Department of Education has stamped its approval on the preliminary plans submitted by the school board.

There is little hope for completing the new building in time for the opening of school in September. It is more likely students will move into it following the Christmas holidays if all goes well.

MVD Secret Police Not 'All Powerful'

OSLO, Norway (AP)—There are still MVD (secret police) officers in all Soviet embassies abroad but they are no longer necessarily all powerful, the chairman of a Russian emigrant society said Thursday night.

Vladimir D. Poremsky of the National Alliance of Russian Solidarity (NTS) told reporters some Soviet ambassadors refuse to be dominated by the secret police officers. "In Stalin's time they were all powerful," he said.

Reactions Are Strong

Galvao's Seizure of Ship Harmful to Premier Salazar

EDITOR'S NOTE—Louis Nevin has been chief of The Associated Press bureau in Madrid for 12 years, a post from which he has closely followed political developments in the Iberian Peninsula. Here he discusses the likely effect of Henrique Galvao's seizure of the Santa Maria on the Salazar dictatorship that has ruled Portugal with an iron hand for 32 years.

By LOUIS NEVIN

LISBON, Portugal (AP) — Henrique Galvao's seizure of the liner Santa Maria has done the opposition to Premier Antonio de Oliveira Salazar great and perhaps irreparable harm, reliable political observers in the Portuguese capital say.

Reaction against those who seized the ship has been strong both in Portugal and in her overseas territories.

The government apparently feels its case is so strong it can sit back and let the United States or Brazil handle the affair.

Dr. Ramiro Valadao chief of the government's press services, told a news conference Portugal would let any intervening power handle the case under its own laws.

He said his government would not even demand extradition of Galvao and his 70 rebels, even though an officer of the ship was killed in the fray.

Thirty-nine opposition leaders saw fit a few days ago to write President Americo Thomaz divorcing themselves from the seizure, which they called an "unequivocally serious act."

Humberto Delgado, the unsuccessful presidential candidate in the 1958 elections who has been living in exile in Brazil hurt his position gravely at home, observers believe, by assuming responsibility for the seizure, and even more so by publicly predicting the seizure would lead to uprisings in Portugal and her territories.

Not the slightest disorder of a political nature has been reported.

Delgado's association with Galvao was never close in the past. Galvao was pretty much of an extremist, both while an ardent supporter of Salazar and after going into the opposition. Delgado was considered more moderate and measured.

Their present apparently close association has surprised many here and disillusioned others.

The facts of the seizure, as published here, disgusted many. The reported international character of the Galvao men—only six Portuguese, the rest Spaniards, Cubans and persons of other nationality—gave a Communist tinge to the whole affair in the eyes of the man in the Lisbon streets.

Avidly awaiting news of the Santa Maria, lines of people buy newspapers as fast as they appear on the streets. Large crowds stand in front of newspaper offices reading the latest news as it is chalked on bulletin boards.

Portugal is a maritime nation, and when something happens to one of her ships, especially the pride of her passenger fleet, it is a personal matter to all of her citizens, whether they approve of the government or not.

Doors Open to 'Fonda' But, Close to His Daughter Jane

By DICK KLEINER
Newspaper Enterprise Assn.

NEW YORK — If you had never heard of her, and saw her on the street, you would say, "That's Henry Fonda's daughter." And if you were lucky enough to meet and talk with her, you would be sure of it. Jane Fonda has the same intensity, livened with flashes of humor, as that of her father.

"A year ago," she says, "I would have said that being Henry Fonda's daughter was a big help to me. Now I'm not so sure. It helps open doors, of course, and I'm certainly going to take advantage of that."

"But it hurt, too."

She was badly hurt not long ago. She's in a Broadway play, "Invitation to a March." Some

"I've been doing the same kind of thing as Sahl and Newhart for years," Herb says, "only it's been masked, because I'm a country comic."

He hopes to come back on TV, only with a new kind of show. "The last frontier of comedy is people," he says. "I'm working up a show just talking to people, on location all around the country. I want to get out into the world and take my show along. I'm no longer satisfied with a studio and papier-mache scenery."

Another possibility is a situation comedy series. Herb says he has been offered "about 15 times" a series with the format now used by Andy Griffith. "That is the oldest joke in country comedy," he says. "The man who is everything in a small town. I turned it down 15 times, and now it's a hit. Who can figure it?"

Dan Cupid is a Promoter, and so is . . .

WEST SIDE VARIETY

718 West 16th. St.

JANE: "The same intensity."

weeks ago, somebody reported to her that a certain actor saw her performance and said, "She got the part because she's Fonda's daughter. She should be clubbed off the stage."

"It made me feel awful," Jane says. "I know, intellectually, that I got this part on merit — I read for it just like everyone else. But still they resent me. I know some other actors resent me because of my father. I don't mind being resented by people with no talent, but it hurts when they are people with talent."

Her first TV part is on the NBC special, "A String of Beads." Like most actors, she found the rehearsal period too short, the tension too high, the pressure too great. But she still got a kick out of it.

Jane never wanted to act as a child. "In fact, I actively wanted not to act." That was after an unhappy stage experience at 15, when she felt "petrified and vulnerable." But, later, teacher Lee Strasberg made her feel "comfortable" on stage, and now she's a dedicated actress.

It has been five years since Herb Shriner has had his own TV show. And he thinks he has proven that a comedian doesn't need TV to get along.

Shriner pioneered (in our generation) the off-beat, semi-topical monologue. The same kind of humor now purveyed so successfully by Bob Newhart and Mort Sahl.

TV Puffs Up Documentaries

By DICK KLEINER
Newspaper Enterprise Assn.

NEW YORK—(NEA)—There is a tendency nowadays for the public to kiss the hand that feeds it.

I refer to the feeling, which the networks naturally foster, that we should get down on our knees and thank ABC, CBS and NBC for their generosity, benevolence and public-spirited goodness in giving us so many documentaries.

All the networks, wearing their antennas like so many stainless steel haloes, refer to their own documentaries with self-serving awe. They send out press releases, issue statements, cross-plug these

Look at what we've done. We've produced a documentary."

All this self-praise, which might be termed electronic egomania, might be deserved, were it not for the simple fact that your daily programs on their regular newscasts, honor their own.

NBC adored Victory at Sea, a documentary on World War II which included such scenes as this one of U.S. Marines helping a Japanese soldier on Guam. So it was shown in 26 half-hour parts six years ago and then boiled down to 90 exciting minutes on Project 20 on Dec. 29.

And the gist of all this is:

"Aren't we magnificent, though?"

newspaper does more, day in and day out, without all this holier-than-thouness.

Just pick up your newspaper and consider it. Almost every day, there is a feature which the networks would term a documentary and generally there are four or five such features.

Every news story in your newspaper is, in effect, a documentary. After all, what is meant by "documentary?" The dictionary definition is: "Of the nature of, or consisting in, documents." Admittedly, the word has come to mean more than that on TV. It apparently now refers to any program other than entertainment.

There is an encouraging tendency for more of this kind of programming and it is a healthy tendency. Programs such as CBS Reports, the NBC White Paper and ABC's Close-Up, plus others of the same stripe, are ordinarily very well done, saying things that need to be said and contributing immensely to the viewers' pleasure and education.

I want it to be made very clear that the point of this story is not criticism of documentaries. On the contrary, they should be encouraged.

But I also feel, quite strongly, that the networks are only doing what they should have been doing all along. And, consequently, the praise they merit should be administered with restraint.

They seem to want to be patted on their heads every time they do a documentary.

What they deserve is merely a muted "Well done," rather than a shouted, "Oh, boy, terrific!"

And it would be judicious, before you go around saying how great TV is for producing documentaries, to consider newspapers and other communications media. Your daily newspaper consistently offers facts, interpretive material, human interest stories and what we call "color" articles which, taken as a whole, comprise documentaries.

The newspapers print these stories as a matter of course. It is our job, just as it is TV's job. We also offer entertainment, as TV does, too. But TV seems to feel entertainment is its sole job and, that when it presents a documentary, it is being very, very noble.

That, of course, is nonsense. And, therefore, TV's documentaries will mean more when the networks treat them as routine, rather than remarkable.

SANTA MARIA DOCKS—The hijacked liner Santa Maria comes over the horizon into the harbor at Recife, Brazil, to discharge 620 captive passengers. Rebels in command of the ship were granted political asylum by President Janio Quadros. The Liberian ship "Panaghiat" is in the foreground. (NEA Radio-Telephoto).

Some Thrilled by Experiences

'Santa Manana', Other Names for Hijacked Liner

RECIFE, Brazil (AP)—In a spirit of wry humor amid the tensions of 12 days, the hijacked Portuguese liner Santa Maria became known to American passengers as the "Santa Manana."

The tag became more apt in the final days at sea when hopes and daily promises of liberation were dashed with the typical Latin shrug-off-tomorrow.

The strain brought other and uglier terms as well. On the last day two American men passengers had a fist fight over a trivial matter.

These examples reflected extremes in the moods of the Americans aboard. Some seemed pleasantly thrilled by their experience; others showed relief from deep anxieties as they stepped ashore.

Down the gangplank they came—tired and buoyant, confused and gay, stunned and relieved. They carried dolls, toys, cameras, bright straw bags and souvenirs bought while the cruise was still just a cruise.

The inside story of the fantastic seagoing revolution unfolded as they related their experiences to reporters ashore.

Caroline Boyce, 60, a widow from Baltimore traveling alone, said she suspected something was up in the early hours of the first day—Sunday, Jan. 22.

She is interested in astronomy and she awoke about 2 a.m. to watch the stars.

"I saw we were going due east instead of west," she said.

"About 6:30 I was awakened again and told to get dressed because someone was shot and killed. I looked out in the corridor and saw blood on the floor and the crew beginning to wash it away." During the seizure, the ship's Portuguese third officer was shot dead and three other crewmen were wounded.

Mrs. Boyce said she had the freedom of the ship, yet was always aware that it was being held by force.

"At the table next to mine in the dining room every night sat seven men wearing revolvers," she said.

Early Hour Dispute Ends In Stabbing

A dispute between Paul Williams, Jr., 31, 409 West Clay, and Birdie Crockett, 34, 431 North Osage, ended in the Crockett woman getting hit over the head with a chair and Williams suffering three ice pick stab wounds, about 12:40 a.m. Thursday.

Williams condition was reported serious early Thursday morning while the woman suffered a laceration on the top of her head about four inches long which necessitated 12 stitches to close.

The stab wounds were on the left side of the chest and were believed to have been deflected from going into the heart by a rib.

According to the woman she believed she was hit over the head with a chair while in the Harlem Club, North Kentucky and the railroad. She said she was sitting at a table with some friends when she was struck twice.

It was reported she left the place and returned later with the ice pick, approached Williams and stabbed him three times. Outside the place when police arrived she attempted to get rid of the ice pick by throwing it up on an awning, but it rolled off into the street and was recovered by officers.

The two were taken to the Bothwell Hospital where Dr. A. W. Maddox treated Williams, and Dr. Carl Siegel attended the woman.

Man Is Convicted Of Manslaughter In Slaying of Rival

ST. LOUIS (AP)—Richard Keller, a brick contractor in St. Louis County, was convicted of manslaughter Thursday and the jury recommended he serve six months in jail for the slaying of a rival for Mrs. Keller's affections.

Keller fired three 410 shotgun blasts at William H. Cole when he found Cole drinking with Mrs. Keller in a tavern July 25. Keller wounded Cole in 1957 when he found Cole in the Keller home.

Keller was released on bond pending an investigation of his plea for probation.

Position Starts To Take Form

Acceptance Greets Measures That Do Not Need Approval

WASHINGTON (AP)—The Republican position on President Kennedy's program to fight the recession began to take form Thursday, a blend of acceptance and opposition.

The acceptance was unenthusiastic and it greeted those measures of Kennedy that need no approval from Congress.

The opposition appeared to be in store for the measures that demand more spending by Congress.

The Republican position was discussed at the first of a series of weekly meetings of the two GOP congressional leaders, Rep. Charles A. Halleck of Indiana and Sen. Everett M. Dirksen of Illinois.

Asked about Kennedy's first steps to combat the recession, Halleck told newsmen: "We find no great quarrel with them but we do not find them altogether earthshaking."

Kennedy, at his news conference Wednesday, announced these steps: An experimental food stamp program, a speed-up on the payment of G. I. insurance dividends, and a cut in the maximum interest rate on FHA-insured loans.

The President also sent an economic message to Congress Thursday. In it he called for faster federal spending, higher old age pensions, and an emergency extension of unemployment pay.

Neither Halleck nor Dirksen would comment on the economic message after their discussion, but Dirksen, before reading the message, had told newsmen he was afraid there would be a heavy impact on the budget when Kennedy spelled out his economic proposals.

ICA Signs New Pact

RABAT, Morocco (AP)—The U.S. Embassy here announced Thursday signing of an agreement between the International Cooperation Administration and the Moroccan government providing for $40 million in loans to Morocco during the fiscal year 1961. U. S. economic assistance to Morocco has totaled more than $200 million so far.

New Administrator

LONDON (AP)—Britain has appointed P. J. F. Wheeler, 32, its new administrator of Tristan da Cunha. The island lies midway between South America and South Africa and has been called the world's loneliest. Wheeler will take his wife and three children with him from Kenya, where he is a district officer.

Through Sale of Securities

Will Borrow $6.9 Billion Next Week, Treasury Says

WASHINGTON (AP)—The Treasury announced plans Thursday to borrow $6.9 billion next week in an operation it said takes into account the current business situation and the gold problem.

The borrowing is being handled through sale of new securities which, it said, will assure its getting all the money it needs and help prevent the flow of corporation funds to investment overseas.

The department, in its first financing announcement since the Kennedy administration took office, said it will raise the money through an offering of 18-month notes paying 3 1/2 per cent interest.

The proceeds will be used to pay off an equal amount of 4 1/2 per cent treasury certificates which mature Feb. 15. Undersecretary Robert V. Roosa told a news conference that the financing operation is designed to take into account "the state of the economy itself and the balance of payments" problem which has led to heavy sales of gold to foreigners.

For one thing, the department strayed from tradition in deciding to pay off the maturing certificates and replace them through a new issue to be offered for cash. With one exception, last August, the department normally has merely refinanced maturing issues by offering new securities in exchange for those coming due.

Roosa said that the technique used this time will make certain that the Treasury gets the full amount it wants. Under the re-

More Deterioration Possible

President Unfolds Broad Plan to 'Abate Misery'

WASHINGTON (AP)—President Kennedy — disclosing that joblessness zoomed in January—Thursday unfolded a broad plan to "abate the waste and misery" of unemployment and revive the sputtering economy.

Saying some minor business improvement is expected this year, Kennedy told Congress further deterioration is possible "if we fail to act."

As might be expected, Republicans called Kennedy's special economic message unduly pessimistic while Democrats said Kennedy has spelled out the "New Frontiers" for a dynamic economy.

In his antirecession message to Congress, Kennedy asked swift action to boost Social Security benefits, raise the minimum wage, extend jobless payments on an emergency basis, and set up a program to help cure areas with chronic economic ailments.

The President also served notice he will send along soon detailed proposals for permanent revisions in the unemployment compensation system, and tax reform ideas intended to stimulate business investment and seal loopholes in the revenue laws.

And he announced new steps he is taking with available funds and under his presidential authority to accelerate federal defense and other buying, particularly in depressed areas; to increase the tempo of roadbuilding, city renewal, local public works and college dormitory construction; and to start credit flowing.

Kennedy did not say what any of his proposals to "restore momentum to the American economy" would cost. But he assured Congress "the programs I am proposing will not by themselves unbalance" the $80.9 billion budget submitted by former President Dwight D. Eisenhower for the bookkeeping year starting July 1.

"If these measures prove to be inadequate," Kennedy told the Senate and House, he will return to Congress with further proposals within 75 days.

This could imply a possible request for a temporary reduction in income taxes which some economists have prescribed to pump out new purchasing power. Kennedy said Wednesday he sees no need for a tax cut now.

To underscore the gravity of the economic situation, as he sees it, Kennedy made known that the number of Americans out of work vaulted by 900,000 last month, reaching a new total of 5.4 million.

This January figure represented 6.6 per cent of the nation's labor force, after allowing for seasonal factors. In December, it was 6.8 per cent.

"We cannot expect to make good in a day or even a year the accumulated deficiencies of several years," Kennedy said in a backhanded slap at the Eisenhower administration.

"But realistic aims for 1961 are to reverse the downturn in our economy, to narrow the gap of unused potential, to abate the waste and misery of unemployment, and at the same time to maintain reasonable stability of the price level."

"For 1962 and 1963 our programs must aim at expanding American productive capacity at a rate that shows the world the vigor and vitality of a free economy."

"These are not merely fond hopes, they are realistic goals. We pledge and ask maximum effort for their attainment."

About 100 to 125 Injured

Six People Killed In Train Accident

BOWIE, Md. (AP)—A special train carrying some 300 passengers to Bowie Race Course derailed Thursday, and six hours later six bodies had been recovered from the tangled wreckage of seven battered coaches.

State police said there was a possibility two more bodies were pinned under one coach of the 11-car Pennsylvania Railroad train.

The railroad said 130 persons were injured in the wreck. More than 800 persons received hospital treatment.

The railroad said the dead included: Daniel J. Belancio, 1428 South Penn St., Philadelphia.

Benjamin A. Good, Lancaster, Pa.

Robert B. Seldomridge, Lancaster, Pa.

Fred W. Cramer Jr., York, Pa.

Benjamin Grady, Spring City, Chester County, Pa.

Floyd Jones, Brooklyn, N.Y., a dining car waiter.

Identities of other dead had not been determined.

The engineer, Howard W. Horner, 62, of Camden, N.J., told state police his brakes failed to slow the train as it approached a cutoff leading to the race track some three miles away.

Horner said he was traveling at about 30 miles an hour when he tried to apply the brakes.

The two diesel engines pulling the train derailed and toppled on their side down an embankment between the main line and the spur. The next two coaches followed the engine and were tailed as they left the track.

The third, fourth and fifth coaches followed the spur and derailed but did not overturn. They were badly smashed and one had a gaping hole torn in its side.

The last two derailed coaches remained on the main line as did the four coaches which stayed on the rails. Two tracks of the three-track main line were torn up, but the other remained open and trains still were able to operate on it.

The train was carrying passengers to Bowie, where a 48-day winter racing meet is in progress.

The card went ahead as scheduled, but the ninth and last race was called off because of a fire in an empty grandstand annex building at the head of the stretch.

The fire, which broke out during the eighth race, poured heavy smoke over the track and blocked visibility. The building, containing ticket windows, is used only on race days in which the crowd overflows from the main grandstand.

No one was hurt in the fire.

First Use Of Big Time Diplomacy

Kennedy Will Host Prime Minister Harold Macmillan

WASHINGTON (AP)—President Kennedy Thursday announced his first use of big-time personal diplomacy. He will play host to Britain's Prime Minister Harold Macmillan during the week of April 2.

Macmillan will not be the first foreign government chief to stop off to see the new President. But he will be the first Kennedy visitor who leads a major world power.

The first foreign chief to stop by, the State Department said, will be Denmark's Prime Minister Viggo Kampmann. Kampmann, on a Feb. 11-19 visit to this country, is ticketed for a White House stop Feb. 14.

And late in February Australia's Prime Minister Robert Menzies is expected to drop in at the Pennsylvania Avenue mansion on his way to a British Commonwealth prime ministers' meeting in London.

The visits of Menzies and Kampmann are described as getting acquainted affairs.

Macmillan's visit is slated to cover both getting acquainted and business. "A general discussion of world problems," was how the White House announcement phrased it.

The Kennedy administration, while reviewing its own international problems, has been reviewing with the British matters of common interest. These interests reach around the globe.

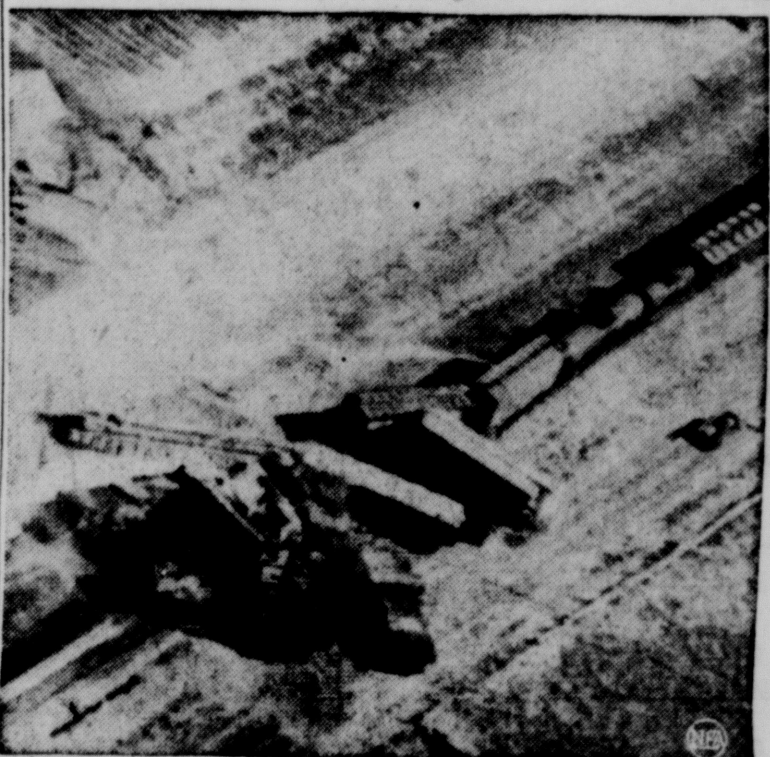

For the 67-year-old Macmillan, whose mother was born in Indiana, this will be his fifth trip to Washington since becoming prime minister in January 1957.

14 Schools Build Fallout Shelters For Demonstrations

JEFFERSON CITY (AP)—Fourteen Missouri schools will build fallout shelters for demonstration purposes this spring, using student labor and federal grants of $250 each.

Dean Lupkey, state Civil Defense director, announced the program Thursday. After they are built, the shelters will be open to public inspection for at least six months.

Schools accepting the grants are at Jackson, Stark City, Southwest City, Greenfield, Macon, Jamestown, Bolivar, Forsyth, Caminsville, Glasgow, Cassville, Monroe City, Linn, and Harrisonville.

DEADLY GAS FROM WRECKAGE—Chlorine gas spilled from this wreckage of a derailed freight train at Labarre, La., affecting 65 persons. One person died from the effects of the gas and 15 others were hospitalized. A tank car carrying liquid chlorine burst when the cars piled up after an axle on one of them broke. (NEA Telephoto)

Toward Peace in Congo

Challenges Kennedy To Follow New Road

UNITED NATIONS, N.Y. (AP)—The Soviet Union challenged the new United States administration Thursday to follow "a new road" toward peace in the Congo.

But Soviet Deputy Foreign Minister Valerian A. Zorin, in issuing this challenge in the U.N. Security Council maintained a harsh attack on Secretary-General Dag Hammarskjöld, and made clear the new approach must be based on previous Soviet demands.

Addressing his remarks directly to U.S. chief delegate, Adlai E. Stevenson, Zorin said: "We await an answer from the new representative of the United States whether he is ready to join us in following the new road."

Stevenson made no immediate reply in the council, but in a statement issued to newsmen said:

"I regret that Mr. Zorin did not address himself to the secretary-general's proposal for taking all of the Congolese armed forces out of politics."

"I also regret his renewed and unjustified attacks on the secretary-general."

Aides said he probably would not speak on the Congo question until late next week — perhaps after next Thursday's Cabinet meeting in Washington where the Congo question is under review.

Zorin declared that peace in the Congo could be achieved only by doing what the Soviet Union had advocated in the past.

This would include the immediate liberation of deposed Premier Patrice Lumumba, the Mo-butu's army, the ouster of all Belgians from the Congo and a new session of the Congolese Parliament, which twice voted confidence in Lumumba after President Joseph Kasavubu fired him last September.

Ritzenthaler Assumes His New Duties

The Missouri State Fair's new Secretary, W. H. "Chubby" Ritzenthaler, assumed his new assignment Wednesday, with the announcement of his appointment by Acting Commissioner of Agriculture Victor "Vic" Gray. Ritzenthaler came to Sedalia, that night, and began making a study of the fair situation for 1961.

Due to his previous experiences at the fair as both the Chief Clerk and also Acting Secretary at the time of the death of Ross Ewing, Ritzenthaler has found it possible to divide his time between Sedalia and Jefferson City this month.

Early in January he was appointed Chief Clerk in the office of Attorney General Thomas F. Eagleton, the same position held under Governor John M. Dalton when he was the Attorney General. As a result he is spending the first two days of each week, Monday and Tuesday in the office of the Attorney General assisting and helping his successor to become familiar with this job.

He will spend the last three days, Wednesday through Friday, at the Missouri State Fair grounds conducting a study to re-familiarize himself with the fair grounds and the activities of the fair. He will be busy in studying contracts for the 1961 fair before signing them.

Mr. Ritzenthaler, Thursday, reported he was not contemplating any changes of personnel or other activity at the fair grounds at the present time. Not until he had an opportunity to make a further study of the situation.

He is anticipating a most successful 1961 exposition and with his previous experience has the knowledge of just about what

Open House To Commemorate Golden Wedding Anniversary

Mr. and Mrs. Pete Eckhoff, Cole Camp, celebrated their fiftieth wedding anniversary on Sunday, with open house at the American Legion building from 2 until 4 in the afternoon.

There were approximately 135 guests present. Mr. Lloyd Eckhoff, son of the couple, greeted the guests at the door.

The hall was decorated in keeping with the occasion. The serving table was covered with a decorated three tier wedding cake. A large numeral 50 in gold decorated the top of the cake. Crystal candelabra with white tapers completed the centerpiece. Cake, coffee, golden punch and mints were served.

Mrs. Olie Eckhoff, Kansas City, poured the coffee and Mrs. William Wischmeier, Lincoln, presided at the punch bowl. Both are daughters of the couple. Mrs. Albert Viebrock, sister of Mrs. Eckhoff cut and served the cake. W. C. Wischmeier, grandson of the couple, was in charge of the guest book.

Mrs. J. T. Ahrens, sister of Mrs. Eckhoff, was in charge of the gifts. Two lovely plants of yellow mums, gifts of Mr. and Mrs. Emil Troutog, Parkville, and Mr. and Mrs. Melvin Riecke and family, Jacksonville, Tex., decorated the gift table. The couple received many lovely gifts and cards.

Mr. and Mrs. Eckhoff were married on Jan. 10, 1911. Their attendants were Mrs. Walter Ehlers and Alonzo Borchers, both of Sedalia. Both were present for the celebration.

The children presented Mrs. Eckhoff with a corsage of yellow roses and Mrs. Ehlers with a corsage of white carnations tied with gold ribbon.

They are the parents of five children, four grandchildren and three great-grandchildren. All were present for the occasion but one granddaughter, Mrs. Kathleen Riecke, Jacksonville, Tex., who was unable to attend.

The January meeting of the Busy Stitches Club was held recently at the home of Mrs. Edith Richardson with dinner served to ten members, two visitors, Mrs. Curtis Lopp and Mrs. Homer Baugh, ten men and eight children.

Roll call was answered with New Year's customs and Christmas gifts received. Virginia Anderson gave an interesting article titled "I Am a Dairyman's Wife." Mrs. Schneider led the game, "Changing Faces," with Grace Rollings receiving the prize.

The next meeting will be at the home of Elsie Barton on Thursday, Feb. 9. Roll call will be "Some Important Date in February." There will also be a grab bag for Valentine observance.

Mrs. Lottie Meisenheimer baked and decorated the anniversary cake and Rev. Sabbert gave a short devotional.

For Sorosis

New Members Present Play 'Madam President' at Meet

Monday's Sorosis program turned out to be a hilarious one when the new members of the organization presented a play, "Madam President," written by William and Dorothy Hopkins and directed by Dorothy.

"This," explained Miss Marian Phipps, current topics chairman, in charge of the new member program, "is a satire on 'if a woman was elected president of the United States'." She went on to say that, according to Webster, a satire is "A literary work in which vices, follies, stupidities, abuses, etc., are held to ridicule and contempt."

The play started with the music of the inaugural parade. The band could be heard in the distance, then grew louder and louder and then fainter and fainter again until it faded out entirely.

The scene was in the White House, Washington, D. C., one hour after the inaugural of the first woman president of the United States. The new president, portrayed by Dorothy Hopkins, came gaily into the room wearing a blue formal, long red gloves and glittering with diamonds (or rhinestones). With her came her new press secretary, Hedda Hopper, played by Gayle Menefee, who wore a black dress, many diamonds (or rhinestones) and a hat that was a riot of color with huge roses and bunches of grapes.

It was all very fine, the new president told her press secretary, except it was too long — she nearly died standing all that time in those high heeled shoes.

The press secretary complained about the reporters asking her all those silly questions — personal questions about the new president. She planned to do something about that. And they made remarks about her hat, too, she said. One of them said he didn't know whether to shoot it, eat it, or put it on his head.

Much to the indignation of the new president the press secretary wanted to know what her plans were now that she was going to play the next four years by ear. She wasn't too sold on the appointment of secretary of agriculture, either, for, of course, the new president planned to have an all woman cabinet. "What does she know about agriculture?" the press secretary wanted to know.

"Why she is perfect for the job," the president told her, explaining that after all she was president of the garden club in her home town and she had had plenty experience with all kinds of problems after going through four husbands.

The president felt that it was time women took over the country, after all they owned the largest percentage of the money, the greatest percentage of the property, she told how many cars they bought each year and ended up by saying that they buy 300 million bottles of reducing medicine a year.

When the press secretary left, the new president sprayed the room. If there was to be a conference she didn't want to have any smelly cigar smoke, and then she remembered that none of the girls smoked cigars, at least she didn't think they did.

Then in came the cabinet members: the postmistress general played by Grace Buchholz; secretary of interior by Jane Bunce; secretary of commerce, Markie Cook; secretary of agriculture, Edna Snell; secretary of treasury, Mary Ann Donelson; secretary of state, Janet Harris; secretary of labor, Nora McKenny, and attorney general, Shirley Wagner, all dressed in formal, wearing all kinds of jewelry, especially bracelets, and most of them with fur stoles.

The postmistress general wanted to know who the new president was going to make head of the FBI. When she said she thought she would retain J. Edgar Hoover, the postmistress general wanted him to spy on her husband (he had another woman) and make a full and comprehensive report to her — "I just want to know what she sees in him," she said.

The new president said she trusted her husband. "He is so honorable, so wonderful — so old."

When the secretary of commerce learned that she was going to have to fly places, she just wasn't about to. "That's against my religious principles," she said. "Your religious principles?" questioned the president. "Yes," came the reply, "You see I'm a devout coward."

The secretary of interior was asked about her gown. "Didn't they have your size?" She explained that she had lost three pounds and 30 friends.

Of course the new president didn't want to change the design of the flag, but it could be a little more feminine and so she had such on display — A beautiful flag of delicate shades of blue and red with the white all made of net. The flag was made by Naomi Schien and Sue Dyer.

"What day is today?" asked the secretary of state, holding a paper in her hand. "I don't know," said the president, "Is it — well you've got the paper, what date is on it?"

"I can't tell, this is yesterday's paper," said the secretary of state.

The secretary of health was absent because she was sick and the president planned to create a new cabinet member, secretary of fashion.

The secretary of treasury was going to throw away all the plates for engraving and have new ones made. There were no pictures of women on the bills, and she planned to have Lydia Pinkham's picture put on the dollar bill.

The secretary of commerce planned to send women spies to the communist countries, she was selecting them from her own neighbors.

The attorney general planned to start legislation so that their husbands couldn't play poker or have those stag parties with a drum in the center of the table out of which would come a female with insufficient clothing.

When the secretary of labor tried to find her report she began taking things out, quite an assortment including her girdle, and when she found the piece of paper all she had down was the numbers, she hadn't been able to think up any plans.

The postmistress general planned to have several sales to get them out of the red — plans were to give away merchandise with stamps instead of stamps with merchandise and to sell money orders, one at the regular price and one free. Stamps, too, would have different flavors of glue, like chocolate and peppermint. "I like mint julep" put in someone.

Secretary of agriculture said she was appointing an assistant, Grandma Moses because the way she paints farm scenes she knew she would be good.

As the meeting progressed it was interrupted twice by a woman dashing in and out and looking for something.

"What are you looking for?" the president finally asked.

"Has anyone seen Mr. Eisenhower's golf shoes?" — yes, it was Mamie, played by Marie Mathieson.

"And Harry," said the new president, "left us two pianos." I thought it would be nice to have a dessert bridge before all cabinet meetings, the president said.

The group then sang the additional national anthem — "There Is Nothing Like A Dame."

The props were Mary Cook and Marjorie Maggard and the understudies Mildred Heynen, Maurine Wolf, Ladye Renshaw, Ruby Monsees, Esther Baker and Clara Peabody.

The meeting was presided over by Mrs. James McNeill, president.

Dave Merrick In Spotlight

THEATER WEEK
By WILLIAM GLOVER
Associated Press Drama Writer
NEW YORK (AP)—David Merrick, the Mr. Big of current Broadway showmen, frankly enjoys spotlight eminence.

"Having a good time interests me most."

Something of a riddle to friend and foe, the results of his profuse energy loom clearly in large dollar signs.

At the moment, five Merrick spectacles on Broadway are established critical and box-office successes—"A Taste of Honey," "Becket," "Do Re Mi," "Gypsy," and "Irma La Douce."

Two more are on tour—"Destry Rides Again" and "La Plume De Ma Tante." Earlier this season Merrick had six simultaneous Broadway shows, a feat he first achieved last year. The best previous output by a single manager was four shows at once.

Variety reported the gate gross in a recent three-week period of Merrick entertainments totaled $1,057,000.

Projects undertaken this season represent $1.35 million in cold cash, supplied chiefly by the 25 men and women who have put up the bulk of funds for his last 20 shows.

In addition to the seven productions, Merrick has two others in preparation.

Such multiplicity provides employment for almost 700 people, including a third of the actors and half of the musicians currently occupied on the Main Stem.

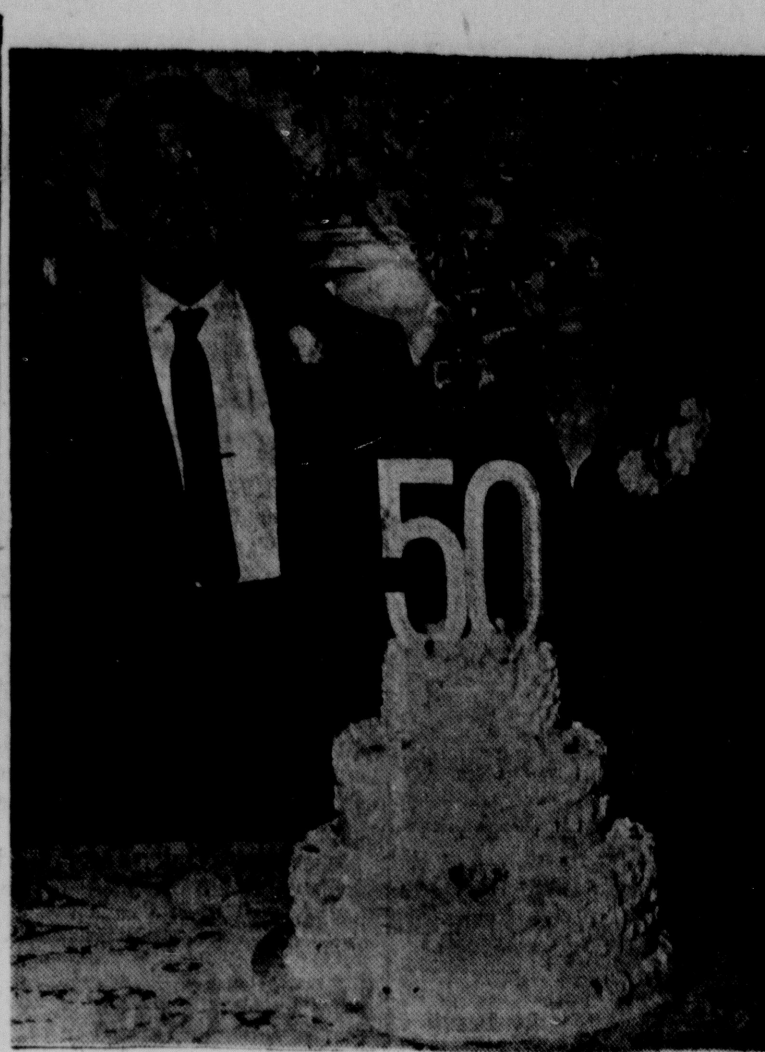

"I haven't been trying to make any records," he goes on, "but emotionally I just cannot operate at a one-play level."

"You work with one show for several years and after it opens you are out of business unless you have something else going."

Various ventures support his assertion that "I don't want to do just commercial musicals."

Merrick himself is less of a hit in some Broadway circles.

The producer expresses cool detachment for the opinions of unfriendly souls who from time to time hang such epithets as "The Undertaker" and "Abominable Showman" upon him.

Sunday Show Draws 2,000 Enthusiasts

Winners Come Here
From Four States
To Show The Dogs

By W. D. Hill
MAN'S best friend, the dog, is getting a great deal of attention in and around Sedalia these days not only from owners, but from dog lovers in general. This attention can be attributed to efforts of the Sedalia Kennel Club.

Last Sunday's Kennel Club show, at Convention Hall, Liberty Park, drew a record attendance of more than 2,000 persons to see the dogs pictured on this page, and many others, go through their paces in demonstrations of obedience.

In all 204 dogs were shown at this show. This was the largest number of entries ever to be shown in a Sedalia dog show and indications are that next year's event is going to show still another increase in both attendance and number of entries.

Little more than two years old, the Kennel Club came into being here on Jan. 6, 1959. Its president is not a Sedalian, however. Heading up the club is Mrs. Midge Lay of Warsaw, Mo.

Other officers of the club are: Gene Gernerth, vice-president; Mrs. James McCurdy, treasurer; and Mrs. June Lutjen, secretary. The board of directors is now composed of James McCurdy, James Reid and Elmer Lutjen.

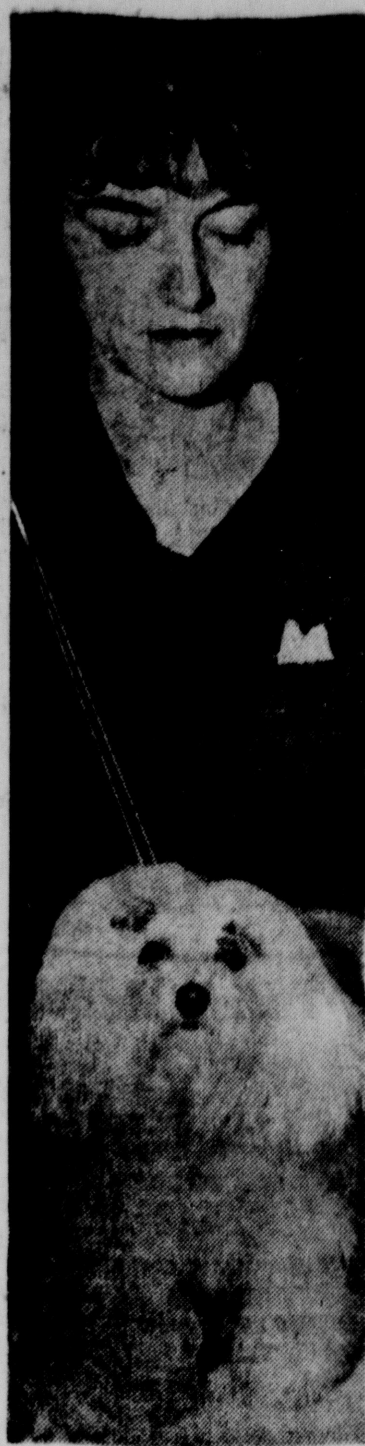

The club's first event was held in March 1959, at the Missouri State Fairgrounds. This was called a Fun Match. Since then they have held two obedience matches. Sanctioned matches under rules of the American Kennel Club (AKC) were held in January of 1960 and the one last Sunday.

Local club members total 20 at this time and club officials are hopeful that this number will soon double with the increase of interest in dogs and the enthusiasm shown by crowds at their showings.

The club offers two membership plans. The first is a "single" plan in which a member can join for dues of $5 annually. A family plan costs $7 in the organization.

Here is some background on the club's close affiliation with the American Kennel Club:

The American Kennel Club, an organization of individual kennel clubs and breed clubs throughout the United States, was established in 1884 with the prime purpose of elevating and preserving the standards of the dog game. Few

The Small Fry In the White House

By JERRY BENNETT

Newspaper Enterprise Assn.

WASHINGTON (NEA)—The

shouts, cries and laughter of little children are every-day sounds in the White House for the first time since early in FDR's administration.

Two days after their father's inauguration, three-year-old Caroline and two-month-old John F.

Kennedy Jr. became the first small fry to live full time at the Executive Mansion since the days of "Buzzie" and "Sistie" Dall.

The two Roosevelt grandchil-

ren moved into the White House with their mother Anna in 1933.

Although President Eisenhower's

four young grandchildren have spent a lot of time at 1600

Pennsylvania Ave., they are not counted on the official roll of

White House toddlers. Their roomings were confined mainly to overnight and week-end visits.

Of the 114 boys and girls born to the nation's presidents, some 32 have lived in the White House, four of them when they were over 21. The youngest were Esther and Marion Cleveland, two of the three daughters of Grover

Cleveland, only chief executive to have a child born in the Execu-afternoon a week. She wanted them to be paraded on the front lawn of the White House as an inspiration to other toddlers.

Mrs. Kennedy is likely to scrap this idea pretty fast if she knows about the troubles that befell Mrs.

Cleveland when she showed off her children. On one occasion, a woman snipped off Esther's blond curls, saying "I have rights."

Another took a rattle away from

Marion and gave it to her own child as a souvenir.

Presidential security rules will dictate special restrictions on the Kennedy children's away-from-home activities. But like other

First Family offspring, they probably will find that there's plenty to do at the White House.

of harmless mischief.

Among White House small fry,

the six children of President Theodore Roosevelt were probably the most mischievous. They owned a spotted pony that had the run of some of the halls and even rode away. One of his first acts upon assuming office was to write his children a letter which said in part:

"Now my children, during the next few years we are to occupy the home of the President of the United States. I hope that you will conduct yourselves with even more than your usual propriety and decorum."

He then warned them to beware of "favor seekers" and to treat everyone impartially. Tyler ended with:

"These words you will kindly remember and let it not be im-cumbent upon me to speak them again."

Refuses To Dismiss Widow's Suit

ST. LOUIS (AP)—A motion for dismissal of a suit seeking to prevent the widow of James S. Bullock from collecting $64,500 in life insurance was turned down Thursday in federal court.

Judge Randolph C. Weber, hearing the case without a jury, said "the matter of the sufficiency of the case may be reviewed later." The strange trial, growing out of a mysterious, unsolved slaying, was recessed until Monday.

At that time Mortimer Rosecan, attorney for the former Edna Ruth Bullock, will present her side of the case. He refused to say whether the widow will testify.

At one point Thursday, an attorney for Bullock's aunt, with the court's permission, intoned: "will Edna Ruth Bullock please come forward if she is present in this courtroom?"

There was no response.

Ivan L. Decker, a robber and gunman serving 35 years in the Missouri Prison, had testified two hoodlum friends told him they killed the 27-year-old utility firm clerk. He said he used this in an effort to extort money from the widow, threatening to tell police she plotted the killing.

Thomas Patrick Murphy, another convict who had claimed knowledge of the slaying, refused to testify Thursday on grounds he might incriminate himself. Authorities have said he told conflicting stories.

It was never a question who would win as St. Paul's Soeldner dumped in 22 points and Karsten and Wolbrecht brought home 16 and 12, respectively. High for Sweet Springs was Straight with 27 points, good for game scoring honors.

In the second contest, Corder was whipped by Hughesville after the first quarter. At half time the score stood 32-20 in favor of Hughesville, and it increased consistently thereafter. Frerking dumped in 22 points for Corder, however, followed by Roeppe with 13. High for Hughesville was Martin with 29 points, good for scoring honors for the game and the evening.

In tonight's games, Concordia plays Higginsville and St. Pauls faces Knob Noster in the semi-final round, while College High of Warrensburg meets Sweet Springs in the consolation bracket.

BUOYANT BASE—As a solution to the safe launching of huge chemical or nuclear-powered rockets of the future, a floating sea base has been proposed. Designed by Aerojet-General Corp., it is called "PROP" (Planetary Rocket Ocean Platform). Drawing shows a 300-foot nuclear rocket ready for launching. The platform is well above the waves and is supported by an underwater buoyant chamber. A submarine is used to evacuate personnel through an air lock after a nuclear firing. PROP is designed to have good stability, even in a hurricane.
